Fact-Finding Group Sees Military Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most members of a fact-seeking squad of senators, congressmen, governors and White House aides say their Southeast Asian trip reinforces President Nixon's estimate of the military success of his Cambodian maneuver.

Arriving here Tuesday night after a swift visit to battle zones of Vietnam and Cambodia, many in the 13-man VIP delegation—picked by the White House in collaboration with the Senate and House Armed Services committees—described it as an informative journey.

Although most declined to disclose their conclusions before today's scheduled meeting with Nixon, Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, a Republican, said their report on the Cambodian step indicates "the vast majority of those of us who were there feel it was a success."

"We hope that it will be a long-term success," he added. "Nobody can predict forever into the future—but what has been done has been good for the American people."

However, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., refused to discuss his findings with newsmen before talking them over with Nixon.

McIntyre, who had said he decided to go on the trip to "prevent a snow job" by pro-administration officials, reported he felt it "is only proper that I meet with the President before discussing my findings with members of the press."

"I certainly had a fast trip. I'll tell you that," he said.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., described Nixon's Cambodian decision as "a great success—probably the most important single military achievement of this entire unfortunate war."

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.,

said he was pleased to "see the progress that has been made in pacification."

Shafer said the delegation members attempted to "answer questions that are on the minds of all Americans—maybe we won't answer them to the satisfaction of everybody, but at least we are going to tell the truth about what we saw, heard and learned."

Earlier Tuesday Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the adoption of this amendment would open the door for "another Vietnam in Cambodia, and perhaps for still others elsewhere."

Solutions To Cases Expected

Law enforcement officials moved Wednesday toward solution of several major area crimes when charges were filed against two men and a warrant was issued for the arrest of a third.

Charged with second degree burglary and stealing in connection with break-ins at area schools were Fred Pugh Jones, 28, 208 West Morgan St., and James Michael Bell, 21, Otterville. They are presently being held in the Pettis County jail.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said charges at present referred only to the theft of office equipment at Smithton High School on May 28. Fairfax added there was evidence implicating the pair in a similar theft at Northwest High School in Hughesville, May 31. Those were the two most recent instances in a series of high school robberies which have netted thieves more than $15,000 in office equipment since last October.

Jones and Bell were originally picked up Monday afternoon by Sedalia police in connection with both the high school thefts and the Griff's Burger Bar holdup last Saturday.

Detective Sergeant Perry Franklin said Jones had admitted he was part of a team that took $398.19 at gunpoint from the hamburger drive-in last Saturday afternoon. Police also found a Pontiac, believed to be the getaway car, parked near Jones' house.

Authorities believe Jones waited in the getaway car on Washington St., with another man, while a third man held up Griff's located at the intersection of Broadway and Massachusetts. The robber escaped on foot down an alley between St. Paul's Church and school on Massachusetts and a witness saw him hop in the back seat of the getaway car, police said.

Sheriff Fairfax said the robbery weapon, a silver, short-barreled .38-calibre pistol, had been recovered. A warrant has been issued for a Kansas City man, suspected in the robbery but authorities requested his name not be released pending his arrest.

Electrical office equipment stolen from area high schools was disposed of in Kansas City, authorities said. Sheriff Fairfax reported that none of the equipment had been recovered yet. He said evidence indicates Bell and Jones made the Hughesville and Smithton break-ins alone. There is also evidence at least one of the men was connected with several of the five previous high school burglaries, Fairfax disclosed.

Fairfax said neither suspect had implicated a Mack's Creek man, who reportedly attempted

U.S. Diplomat Is Killed Amid Jordanian Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American staff member of the U.S. Embassy in Amman has been killed in the fighting raging over that Jordanian capital the State Department reported Wednesday.

A spokesman said that reports from eyewitnesses indicate that "He was caught in a crossfire in his home."

Press office John King told a news conference that Secretary of State William P. Rogers was trying to notify members of the man's family in the United States. King said his identification would not be made public until notice had been given the family.

King said he understood that the man's immediate family—wife and children—were with him when he was shot.

King also reported on the basis of dispatches from the ranking U.S. diplomat in the embassy, Harry I. Odell, that another staff member of the embassy, Robert Pelletreau, was among 14 American citizens held in the Amman's Intercontinental Hotel.

Pelletreau is a professional diplomat and a member of the embassy's political section.

Late this morning, Washington, Odell sent a message to the State Department reporting that the embassy chancery—the office building—had been struck by bullets fired by snipers. King said that the report did not detail the extent of damage. He quoted the dispatch as saying:

"We are now hearing tank fire."

King put the total number of Americans resident in Jordan at 315. Of that number, he said, 90 are U.S. government employees, 130 are dependents of the employees and another 90 are wives of Jordanians. He estimated the number of American transients in Jordan at about 10 a day but could not say exactly how many transients have been caught by the fighting.

The fighting has been between Jordanian Army forces and Palestinian guerrillas.

The State Department, King said, is issuing a warning to embassies to advise all Americans to stay out of Jordan because of the danger there. He noted that travel into the country would be difficult in any case because the airport at Amman has been closed.

King made public the names of the 14 Americans held in the Intercontinental Hotel by a group known as "the popular front for the liberation of Palestine."

He said that they are held as hostages but the U.S. government itself was "really not clear on what the demands are." In any case, he declared, the demands have been made on the government of Jordan and it is handling that problem.

U.S. officials have been in touch with some of the hostages

Suspected Murderer Captured

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A young Californian sought by police as the ritualistic slayer who calls himself "The Candlelight Killer" was captured near here today after allegedly robbing a motel and taking the owner's wife as hostage.

Arrested after a bullet-punctured, 15-mile chase was Robert Liberty, 23, blamed by police for three murders—including one which landed him in a mental hospital for three years.

Taken into custody with him were a 17-year-old boy from Oklahoma City and Kendall Bierly, 24, of New York City, identified by police as Liberty's girlfriend. All three were held on charges of aggravated robbery, kidnapping and assault with intent to commit murder.

Police said three persons staying at the motel robbed Edna Bernek, the owner's wife who was serving as night clerk, of about $100 and fled with Mrs. Bernek as a hostage.

The car was spotted by police, and detective Bernie Carter gave chase. Officers said the occupants apparently knew Carter was a detective and showed that they were holding a gun to the hostage's head.

The chase continued at high speed. Six shots reportedly were fired at Carter's unmarked auto and he fired three shots into the side of the pursued vehicle when he drove alongside.

The car pulled to the side of the road and the three occupants surrendered, officers said. The hostage was unhurt.

Liberty was charged with murder and flight to avoid prosecution after his roommate, Thomas Astronia, 25, was found dead March 12 south of Los Angeles in Orange County.

Police said Liberty kidnapped a 17-year-old motorist in Long Beach last Saturday and forced him to drive to Westminster, Calif., where Liberty robbed his own mother of $45 at gunpoint in her home, saying she owed him the money.

California authorities said the young motorist was forced to drive to San Diego, where Robert Irion, 52, was killed. In Irion's apartment was the message scrawled in pencil across a closet door: "The Candlelight Killer strikes again." Two candles were burning beside the body when officers arrived.

Accept Plans For Junior High

By KEITH A. OWEN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The Sedalia board of education Tuesday night approved a master plan, designed to serve as a final blueprint for the new junior high school at 19th St. and Ingram Ave.

Several changes were incorporated in the new plan, including an "open space" concept which would allow for greater versatility in classroom space, according to Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools.

According to Norris, the "open space" concept's primary objective is to use fewer permanent walls and to enhance greater mobility of equipment in the school.

Permanent walls would be replaced by movable folding partitions. The result, according to Norris, would be a fuller realization of teacher-student ratios for special education projects. Larger or smaller student groups could be organized for any given purpose through use of the partitions, he said.

"Anybody who builds 30-student cubbyholes that are fixed for all eternity is 30 years behind time," Norris said.

Another significant change was the reinstatement of an indoor swimming pool in the new school. The pool would be added only if funds are available for it after completion of the main school building, Norris said.

In other action, the board of education altered its stand on compulsory changes of elementary schools when a family moves from one district to another. The board voted that in the future students will be allowed to remain in their original school until the end of the school term, unless parents decide otherwise.

The board ruled that a teacher with a bachelor's degree cannot receive a pay increase after receiving additional scholastic credits from any two-year institution. It also announced that bids would be accepted at the next meeting for removal of a house located on the junior high school site.

Another topic of interest was the initiation of a soccer program for the 1970-71 school year. The program was set up on an interscholastic level. The program was given an initial budget of $2,000, and it was recommended that Armin Ciersdorff, presently an instructor of German, be asked to coach.

Administration recommendations concerning school supply bids were accepted and approved. Montgomery Ward's low bid of $1,641.27 was accepted for the purchase of chain link fence and Walker Publishing Co.'s low bid of $2,244.55 for printing supplies was accepted.

The board accepted the resignations of Donald Donath, Max Field and Lucy Welch. It also awarded a contract to

Two-Edged Comments By Kosygin

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today the Soviet Union will try to improve relations with both the United States and Communist China. He assailed the policies of both, however.

Kosygin said in a major speech that Washington is following a policy of the "medieval past, a policy without a future" in Indochina. He also accused the U.S. government of encouraging Israel to show "no signs of a desire for a fair and peaceful settlement in the Middle East."

Speaking as a candidate for the Supreme Soviet election Sunday, Kosygin accused China of "not allowing any appreciable progress in the normalization of relations in general or in the current (border) talks in Peking."

But Kosygin said his government believes that better relations with both the United States and China are in the best interest of the countries involved and would serve the cause of peace.

Kosygin declared that "there is only one way to solve the problem of Indochina—by with-

Might Ease a Deadlock Over Budget For State

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A first break in the House-Senate deadlock over appropriations bills may have come today out of a corridor chat between the appropriations chairman of the two houses.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis Senate Appropriations chairman, said he talked with his House counterpart, Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-Overland, in the hall and both agreed to make "a good faith effort to settle the differences between the two houses" tonight.

McNeal reported the conversation to the Senate and urged members to "stop needing House members" about the rift that has existed so the conference committee will have a fair chance of reaching a settlement.

He said Cantrell assured him he would make the same request of House members.

Earlier Cantrell failed to show up for a third scheduled meeting with the Senate conferees to seek a compromise on the 1970-71 budget.

The five Senate members of the conference committee met as they promised at 9 a. m. They waited 16 minutes and then were dismissed by McNeal.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I suppose we might as well go about our business."

As the senators filed out, a newsman checked Cantrell's office. His staff was there but he had not arrived. A member of the House contingent, Rep. Dean Shaver, D-Anderson, said he had received no request from Cantrell to attend a conference committee meeting.

Shaver said he knew about the meeting times because he had seen them in the papers. Twice Tuesday the Senate conferees met in vain. McNeal said they would continue to meet at regular intervals in hopes the House members would cooperate.

The first time Cantrell said he hadn't been notified of the meeting although Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, was told

Will Process Tax Returns, Says Schaffner

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A stack of some 75,000 income tax returns will be processed and the money deposited by June 30, James E. Schaffner, state revenue director, promised Tuesday.

He issued the pledge after Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carriage, charged on the Senate floor that $5.5 million in income tax revenue was being withheld to make the state's fiscal picture look as bad as possible.

That just isn't true, Schaffner said in a statement. He said the crush of income tax returns at this time of year overtaxes his staff but the employees are working at the stockpile steadily. He said it would not do any good to hire more workers because he had no space in which they could work.

"Despite the handicaps which stretch out the processing of tax returns over a period of several months," he said, "our staff is handling the work in an orderly and efficient manner."

Cambodians Oust Reds From Town, Open Field

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian troops pushed back enemy forces around Siem Reap and reopened the airport to replenish their dwindling supply of food and ammunition, the Cambodian Command reported today.

A military spokesman said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were still around Siem Reap and hit the provincial capital 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh with harassing fire Tuesday night. But the opening of the airport between the city and the ruins of Angkor Wat was viewed here as a major achievement for the government.

The spokesman said the enemy force that attacked Siem Reap included Laotians who probably were impressed into service as porters. He added they may have been troops of the Communist Pathet Lao movement.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces also continued their harassment of Kompong Thom.

another provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh on the highway to Siem Reap and Angkor. But the heavy pressure on Kompong Thom last week appeared to have eased for the moment.

The spokesman also reported a heavy Viet Cong attack before dawn today in southern Cambodia, on a military post near Kompong Som, the country's chief port formerly known as Sihanoukville. But the garrison apparently held on.

Thailand's military chief of staff, Air Marshal Dawee Chulalaspaya, returned to Bangkok after a one-day visit to South Vietnamese leaders in Saigon. He reportedly made the trip to discuss transfer of part of the 12,000 Thai troops in South Vietnam to the Siem Reap area, which is 80 miles east of the Thai border.

Meanwhile, Dawee's deputy, Lt. Gen. Kriengsak Chamand, and a team from the Thai air force were in Phnom Penh discussing Thai air operations in support of Cambodian ground operations. Diplomats in Phnom Penh said Thai pilots and planes soon would join South Vietnamese air units in helping out the hard-pressed Cambodian air force, which has only 30 small bombers.

American and South Vietnamese forces reported generally light contact with enemy units in Vietnam and Cambodia but uncovered another 100 tons of rice and more than 30 tons of weapons and munitions in border areas of Cambodia.

In a series of skirmishes while searching out the North Vietnamese caches, U.S. troops reported killing seven of the enemy while suffering no casualties.

Six Americans were reported killed in South Vietnam and 41 wounded, most of them in actions in the northern part of the country. The allied commands said 59 North Vietnamese and

Police HQ Is Ripped By Bomb

NEW YORK (AP) — Seventeen minutes after an anonymous caller telephoned a bomb threat, a powerful dynamite blast ripped through the second floor of police headquarters Tuesday night. Eight persons were injured, none seriously.

"There is a bomb set to go off at police headquarters," the unidentified male caller said and hung up. The time was 6:40 p.m.

About 150 persons were at work in the fortress-like, 61-year-old structure at the time—most of them in the 4th floor communications center. Emergency units sped to the building and began a search.

At 6:57 p.m. the bomb—estimated to have contained 10 to 15 sticks of dynamite—exploded in a men's room, destroying several nearby offices and shattering windows in the five-story structure.

First Deputy Commissioner John F. Walsh described the explosive device as a sophisticated bomb with timer and said that if it had gone off earlier the day, 500 employees would have been in the building.

Manhattan has been plagued by a series of bombings in recent months, one of them in the Criminal Courts building, a few blocks from police headquarters.

Hold Plans On Easing Food Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is holding off plans to seek an easing of the strict law banning such cancer-linked food additives as cyclamates.

Legislative aides in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have mapped plans designed to ease the ban without adverse public opinion.

But sources said Tuesday that acting HEW Secretary John G. Veneman put a hold on the plans after vigorous complaints from Food and Drug Commissioner Charles C. Edwards.

Veneman is acting HEW chief until the Senate confirms Elliot L. Richardson as replacement for former Secretary Robert H. Finch, who opposes the additive ban. Finch went to the White House staff last Saturday.

When Finch was forced last October to ban the artificial sweetener cyclamate he complained that the law was too strict because it forced action when any additive was found to cause cancer when fed to animals in any amount. Cyclamates were linked to bladder cancer in rats.

Some argue for retaining the law, known as the Delaney amendment after its sponsor, Rep. James L. Delaney, D-N.Y. But Creed Black, assistant HEW secretary for legislation, said in a memo Monday that it should be altered because the secretary must now outlaw cancer-linked substances even when evidence comes from tests on "inappropriate animals under inappropriate conditions."

The memo, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, went on to propose eliminating the compulsory ban in favor of ceilings—or tolerance levels—for additives linked not only to cancer, but to birth defects, genetic mutations or other irreversible damage.

New Grass Developed By Israel

EILAT, Israel (AP) — A wonder grass with multiple uses and a promising commercial future has been developed in Israel's Negev Desert.

Its growers claim it can reduce water pollution, cheaply substitute for wood pulp in the production of high-quality paper and do many more things.

Dr. Hugo Boyko, who died in May, developed the reed-like vegetation called juncus-esparto, using desert sand and plentiful underground saline water.

Just before his death Boyko said tests in Scottish and English paper mills had yielded excellent results.

The mills thought so much of its qualities that they applied for the complete harvest once it reaches an economically profitable level of 10,000 tons annually, Boyko said. He indicated that Israeli production within the next few years will be much higher.

"I'm not trying to tell you that the juncus is going to completely replace wood pulp for papermaking," he said. "But the market for high quality paper is so great that we will have absolutely no trouble selling our entire production no matter how large it becomes—and we shall be able to cover millions of desert acres now empty and unused."

Boyko said the grass can purify urban or industrial waste water by breaking down noxious compounds or destroying harmful micro-organisms.

"Water filtered through the grass is clean enough to drink," the scientist asserted.

The grass has found other uses in pharmaceutical laboratories, as a dairy fodder, in the manufacture of woven mats, baskets and wicker furniture, in the production of plastic sheets and as an insulating material.

Reports Data On Communist Party Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of card-carrying Communists over the world is increasing at the same time more local parties are splitting into pro-Moscow and pro-Peking factions, according to the State Department.

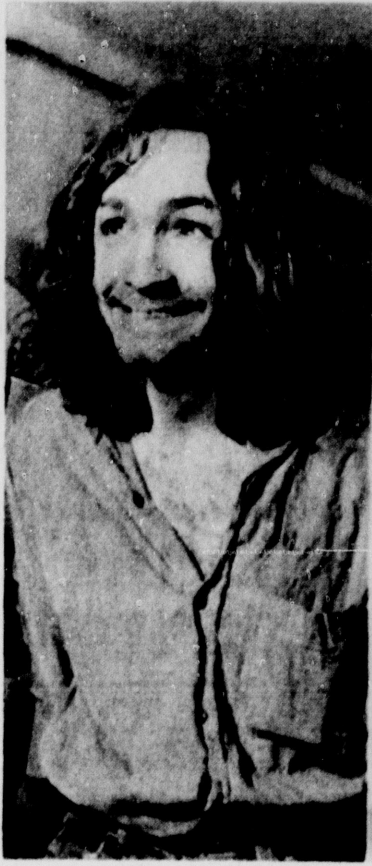

The party in 23 nations was divided over the Sino-Soviet dispute at the end of 1969, the department survey reports. By comparison, only 15 parties were split in 1966 and 21 in 1968.

The trend seems to confirm the bitter complaint by Pravda, the official Soviet party organ, that Peking's accusations against Moscow are "divisive."

At the same time, the survey revealed, total membership of all Communist parties was estimated at about 45.9 million, an increase of 700,000 from 1968.

The survey also disclosed Communist parties hold effective control of 14 countries with an estimated 43.3 million party members at the end of last year. This comprises 94.3 per cent of world membership, leaving only 2.6 million members for the "out of power" parties.

Two signers of the Declaration of Independence became presidents — John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

Plan To Curb Pollution Is Prepared By Muskie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says he wants to give air polluters three years to clean their smokestacks and exhaust pipes as part of a control package that would include some type of national emission standards.

The Maine Democrat predicted passage of significant air and solid waste laws by Labor Day. Proposed legislation is being drafted on Muskie's air and water pollution subcommittee.

Muskie told newsmen Tuesday an air pollution bill probably would combine air quality standards with some limits on emissions.

"We're trying to work out something that would avoid the built-in traps of national standards," Muskie said. The chief difficulty is that metropolitan areas require tougher controls than those needed in rural areas.

He said the chief air polluter is the automobile. He indicated such steps as strict traffic controls and new techniques in highway planning will be needed to supplement whatever pollution control devices become available.

He said air standards would be pegged to health hazards but said any legislation would contain a clear statement of future national goals going far beyond that.

Muskie criticized as inadequate the $4 billion the Nixon administration seeks over the next four years as the federal share of a $10-billion waste treatment facility program.

He commented in advance of testimony today in which Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott defended the Republican effort and said the $10 billion is "sufficient to meet all municipal waste treatment needs through 1970."

In his prepared testimony Scott defended strongly the water-pollution attack outlined by the Nixon administration.

Talks by UAW With Detroit Set in July

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union, led by a new president, has made mid-July dates with the Big Three automakers to open 1970 contract negotiations complicated by a business slump in the industry.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock is expected to continue a tradition established by his predecessor, the late Walter P. Reuther, by attending the formal opening of the talks with General Motors on July 15, Ford on July 16 and Chrysler on July 17.

Reuther died May 9 in a plane crash in northern Michigan and Woodcock was chosen to succeed him by the UAW International Executive Board May 22.

A work stoppage could be disastrous to the automakers in a year when sales and profits are nosediving.

The last time a new contract was negotiated during a period of economic recession was in 1958 and agreement was reached without a national strike.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nixon Cabinet member says despite continuing price rises that increased taxes are out this year, and another says wage-price controls won't stop the inflation.

The administration won't ask for any more new taxes this year and couldn't get them from an election-minded Congress if it did. Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy said Tuesday.

And Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz said wage and price controls would not work because the public would not accept them and they would require miles of red tape.

"They would do more harm than good," Shultz said in a talk at the National Press Club. "They wouldn't roll back the cost of living."

Kennedy told newsmen that the administration did not have any plans to ration credit, either. "Consumer credit has not been going up," he said. "The facts would not justify such a system at the present time."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved and sent to the Senate a $7.4 billion Agriculture Department money bill.

The bill, passed by a voice vote Tuesday, includes $2.5 billion for special food programs including food stamps for needy families and milk and lunch programs for needy children.

It also contains $100 million to help build water and sewer systems in cities below 5,500 population, or more than four times the $24 million asked by the Nixon administration.

Humidity, Pollution Trouble TV Tuners

By PETER WEAVER
Q — I read your article on how to purchase a color TV and I disagree with your so-called experts. I am a serviceman and have serviced many makes of color TVs. In your article you named Magnavox as one of the better sets to buy.

I agree that Magnavox does give a good color picture, but I think that the sets require more upkeep than the top six you mentioned. Magnavox has used a tuner that has given a high percentage of trouble.

I would like to know how these people you claim are experts got to be experts. — C. C. Clinton, Mass.

A — Magnavox admits it had trouble with the tuner but claims other companies have had trouble with theirs, too. A Magnavox engineer explained that "high humidity, increasing amounts of air pollution and dust" play havoc with a TV tuner. Pollutants eat away the smooth metal surface of the tuner's innards which in turn makes for a poor contact and a distorted picture. To solve this, the Magnavox engineer says his company has modified the tuner to include a "self-cleaning device" which applies chemical cleanser to the tuner every time you turn the knob. For those who have older sets, he says, a 38-cent kit will be provided so servicemen can make the modification (does not include labor costs).

I interviewed more than 30 "so-called experts" in gathering material for the TV column. One is a consumer products editor with an electronics magazine. Others are electronics products buyers with major department store chains or are electronics engineers — in and out of government. Still others are servicemen who, like yourself, got to be good at their trade through hard work and the asking of sharp questions.

Q — We are one of the largest TV rental agencies in the country. One of the sets we find to be the most reliable and easy to service is the Hitachi which is the only one sold to dealers with a complete one-year service warranty, two-year picture tube warranty and five-year warranty on all transistors. This set was not even mentioned in your article. — S.L., district heights, Md.

A — Hitachi is, indeed, a good TV name and is the biggest seller in Japan. It wasn't mentioned here because its U.S. distribution, for the moment, is limited. As for warranties, Admiral says it's the only company with a three-year picture tube warranty.

Q — What is the complete cost and the address of Computer Assisted Selection Service for finding the right college? I've been turned down by my first choice because there were more than 200 applicants for dental hygiene studies and only 25 openings. — S.J.M., Elgin, Neb.

A — The computer company's address is: COMPASS Division, Information Systems Corp., 1701 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. Price: $15.

Q — I have been a New York City police officer for 20 years. My wife and I are not professional cranks but are just average, middle-income people. I know you are not a collection agency but would you intercede with the Ford Motor Co. on a warranty matter?

In 1967, we bought a new four-door station wagon. We believed we had a warranty on the motor for 50,000 miles. The motor was replaced at 31,000 miles. We were billed by the dealer and paid $473.50. We have written three registered letters to Ford. No reply. — J. M. Staten Island, N.Y.

A — After presenting your case to Ford, I received this news from the company's national service manager: "Since the dealership does not have a record of why they considered the repairs to be nonwarrantable, our representative has authorized full reimbursement to the customer."

You went about this the wrong way. You should not have paid the dealer. You should have immediately gotten in touch with Ford's own regional service office. Sending registered letters into the main office isn't the way. It takes too long and, if the specific addressee isn't there, the letters can be refused.

Lion Lovers Back Together Again

LAKE NAIVASHA, Kenya (AP) — Authors George and Joy Adamson, foster parents of the lioness "Elsa," are together again after several years in separate camps in remote Meru National Park.

Now in their 60s, the Adamsons have the strength and enthusiasm of many half their age and are as dedicated as ever to preservation of world wildlife.

Instead of the canvas, grass or thatch roofing they've known for years they live quietly in permanent housing with large glass doors which keep out the cold, damp night air.

The roar of a lion is as common here as a dog's bark in other gardens. Black and white colobus monkeys leap joyfully among the stately yellow-green fever trees around their home. It is on the shore of brilliant blue Lake Naivasha, in the great Rift Valley of Kenya.

Joy, born in Austria, and holder of a degree in music, admits she was hesitant to start writing of Elsa, "because of my funny English." She still speaks with a slight accent. She remembers a frightening month in London in 1959 when she was seeking a publisher. "I was a girl from the bush without anything," she observes.

A piano in the corner of their spacious living room is now used for physical therapy. Joy's right hand, with which she painted over 700 Kenya tribal portraits, was mangled in a car accident 18 months ago and lacks muscle control after three operations.

She types with one finger of her left hand and is impatient with unexpected visitors "who walk in here and think I can spend the whole day chatting." She has a new book coming out in August and is writing yet another.

A glass-door bookcase contains some of her Elsa books in several of the 35 languages they've appeared in. Joy estimates that some five million Elsa books have been sold since "Born Free," the first, appeared a decade ago.

"Living Free," "Forever Free," and two illustrated children's books followed. Joy is also the author and illustrator of the anthropologically significant "Peoples of Kenya."

"Bwana Game," an autobiographical account of George Adamson's 23 years as a game warden in Kenya's northern frontier district, is his only book. It too was widely translated.

George served as adviser for the movie "Born Free" and as a cameraman for the television special "The Lions Are Free." At various times he has been a bartender, a milk vendor, a gold prospector and a plantation hand. He was born in India.

After Elsa's death in the early '60s the Adamsons retreated to the remoteness of Meru National Park. They built separate camps, she to study cheetahs and he to return a pride of lion to nature.

All 10 of George's lions except one named Boy which suffered a broken leg, returned to the wild. Boy was in the film "Born Free" and has been with George nearly six years.

Joy has given virtually all the royalties from her animal books to the Elsa Wild Animal Appeal, established as a charity in the United States and Britain to help reserve wildlife.

George, her quiet pipe-smoking husband of 27 years, spends his days with Boy or doing wood work in his shop.

Licensing Measure Is Passed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A bill to license nursing home administrators and thus prevent loss of about $40 million in federal funds was passed by the Missouri Senate today.

The vote sending it back to the House for action on Senate changes was 29-0.

If Missouri does not conform with the federal requirements for such a law by July 1, Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, said the matching funds for Medicaid and other state-federal programs under the Social Security Act would be imperiled.

Also passed and sent back to the House was a bill to let voters of St. Louis city and county decide whether to set up a metropolitan area cultural district to operate the zoo and city art museum in St. Louis and the Museum of Science and Natural History in Clayton.

The premier took the position that on Indochina, the Middle East and other international issues it was up to Washington to make new moves to lessen tension. He offered no Soviet concessions but expressed general approval of any improved U.S.-Soviet relations.

In the Middle East, Kosygin said, the Soviet Union will continue its support for Egypt, Syria and other Arab states in their just struggle to eliminate the consequences of Israeli aggression.

Gain Nothing From Break-In At Post Office

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LINCOLN — The post office here was broken into sometime Tuesday night, but Postmaster Oren Moor said Wednesday afternoon that apparently nothing was missing.

The would-be thieves entered the post office after gaining entrance to a furniture store storage building and then breaking through the wall into the post office.

Moor said that a postal inspector had been in Lincoln and completed his preliminary investigation. Authorities here had no clues concerning who might be involved, Moor said.

No estimate of damage was available, but repairs were in progress Wednesday afternoon.

The break-in occurred sometime between 10:45 p.m. Tuesday and 6:15 a.m. Wednesday, Moor said.

Might

of the Senate offer to try for a compromise on the budget. Cantrell said he didn't plan to meet until the senators improved their offer on allocations in the $1.4 billion budget.

The second time, at 8 p.m., the five Senate conferees met even though they were skeptical of House cooperation. The five House members didn't appear although the lone Republican House member, Rep. H. F. Holland, R-Sheridan, was ready.

He walked around the darkened corridors of the capitol and saw nothing of his four Democratic colleagues on the joint committee and retired to his office.

The five senators gave up after about 20 minutes.

The deadlock between the two houses centered over the $4 million the Senate had added to state school aid. Cantrell said it would be put to better use if divided up among the divisions of health and welfare and aid to junior colleges.

It provoked senators to criticize Cantrell as arrogant and trying to become a dictator. Cantrell said he would not feel too badly if the budget problem is not settled by the constitutional deadline for the special session, midnight Sunday.

Then, he said, the whole budget problem could be worked out from the start again in another special session of the legislature.

A student insurance program provided by the Missouri High School Activities Association came under discussion but action was postponed until the next board meeting.

Larry Smith, representing the M.H.S.A.A., told the board the new insurance coverage would provide protection for virtually every school-sponsored activity, and Dr. Norris said he felt the proposal offered many benefits.

from time to time, King added, and "We do get the impression that they're not being mistreated." He expressed concern for their safety and declared:

"It's inherent in the term hostage that there is some danger."

One of the hostages in the Jordan Intercontinental Hotel was a son of former President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon. Another was Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neeld, who reported the hotel was held by the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a small terrorist organization which has frequently rejected Arafat's leadership.

Neeld said a spokesman for the Popular Front charged Tuesday night that the Jordanian army was bombarding Palestine refugee camps around Amman, causing many deaths. The guerrilla spokesman said the safety of the hostages could not be guaranteed if these attacks continued.

Neeld's report made no mention of the broadcast announcement of the Hussein-Arafat agreement and apparently was sent before it was announced. Communications with Amman were sharply curtailed.

Hal Boyle's Column

Evidence Is Giveaway Of Over-40 Syndrome

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Poor Man's Philosopher:

"Lately I have been going steady with a nice man who makes something of a mystery of his age. He likes to give the impression that he is under 35, but I have a feeling he is nearer 45.

"Personally, I don't care how old he is, as he has a good job and, of course, I'm not getting any younger myself and a girl of 31—that's a laugh—can't always pick and choose.

"But I would like to know if he's kidding me about his real age. Can you help me?"

"Curious."

Certainly, my dear. No one can hide his actual age for long. His attitudes and conduct inevitably give him away.

Your boyfriend is certainly well over 40 if—

His wig is beginning to shed but he blames the falling hairs on his dog.

He begins to fidget if you look longingly at the a la carte side of a restaurant menu instead of ordering the price-fixed dinner.

On Saturday nights he'd rather listen to Lawrence Welk than take you out dancing.

His medicine cabinet contains two kinds of sleeping pills, three kinds of antacid tablets and four bottles of tranquilizers.

Any small talk he gives you that any day now he's going to take up jogging to get in better shape is just that—small talk.

Miniskirts on other girls look good to him, but he hates to have you wear one.

If he is considering marrying you, he keeps asking you pointed questions about your financial background and whether he would have to support any of your insolvent relatives.

A World War II uniform is still hanging in his closet.

When he is in an amorous mood, he can't chase you twice around the sofa without getting short of wind.

Now and then he forgets himself and starts bragging about how soon all his life insurance will be paid up.

He never forgets your anniversaries, because he is now old and smart enough to know how important they are to a woman.

When he goes without shaving for a day, his 5 o'clock shadow has a Civil War motif—a tinge of gray as well as blue.

If the price of anything goes up, he worries about whether the nation is heading again into a major depression.

If you exclaim, "Cool it, man!" he thinks you are asking for another ice cube in your drink.

Should these things be true of your boyfriend, lady, you can bet he's over 40—give him all the help you can.

Women Junk Their Bikes For a Motor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An 1,800-mile cross-country bicycle jaunt ended in Oklahoma City Tuesday when two female cyclists sold their bikes, rented a car and headed west.

A Massachusetts woman and her daughter had planned to cycle from their home to California but cut their three-month journey short when they realized that towns and camp sites were getting farther apart.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Moseley and her daughter, Joy, 18, Walpole, Mass., checked into an Oklahoma City motel Monday and completed their trip Tuesday in a rented car. They plan to go on to Los Angeles and fly home from there.

Social Security Benefits Run High in County

Pettis County ranks high in the number of Social Security beneficiaries and benefits, according to a recent Social Security Administration report released by Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton.

The report shows that 5,721 residents in Pettis county received a total of $447,000 in December 1969.

Missourians received $674,525,000 in Social Security benefits in 1969 and total benefits paid to Missourians in all counties last December was $54,645,000.

At the end of 1969, a total of 656,581 retired workers and their dependents, disabled workers, their families, surviving children and widowed mothers were receiving benefits, according to the report.

Other area county figures are: Benton, 2,435 beneficiaries, $189,000 in benefits; Camden, 2,467 persons received $203,000; Cooper, 2,446 received $195,000; Henry, 4,284 received $330,000; Johnson, 3,696 received $292,000; LaFayette, 4,590 received $366,000; Moniteau, 2,053 received $153,000; Morgan, 2,266 received $202,000; and Saline, 4,914 received $387,000.

CONCERN FOR CROCODILES

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Wildlife officials are concerned about Rhodesia's dwindling supply of crocodiles, regarded by most people in southern Africa as dangerous vermin. "Although the crocodile has not yet reached the position of being an endangered species we take every opportunity to ensure that this will never come about," a spokesman said.

Four crocodiles which had been killing stock in an African farming area were recently captured, and instead of being shot, taken by truck to a remote area where they should not be a menace.

The Delta Project, a flood control plan scheduled for completion in this decade, will add more than 25,000 acres of reclaimed land to Netherlands territory.

U.S. Gourmets Boost Imports of Frog Legs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans may be mostly beef eaters but last year the United States imported more than 3.8 million pounds of frog meat to satisfy the more discriminating palates.

This was nearly 700,000 pounds more than in 1968, according to an Agriculture Department report analyzing U.S. foreign trade for last year.

The frog legs represented only $3.1 million of the total $4.9 billion in agricultural imports last year. Sugar, other meat, dairy products, coffee and bananas were some of the more important commodities.

But the more exotic items comprised important additions to U.S. consumer demands. Take dates. Last year 6.3 million pounds were imported (with pits) and 17.3 million pounds (without).

Champagne imports totaled 2.4 million gallons last year, up from 2.2 million in 1968. But feathers (crude) were down from nearly 7.5 million pounds to around 5.1 million last year.

Other items imported as agricultural products, included eucalyptus, kapok seed oil, deer skins, kangaroo and wallaby skins, llama hair, broomcorn, silk cocoons, crude opium and glue.

Last year's agricultural exports, about $5.9 billion for calendar 1969, were mostly grain, cotton, livestock products, tobacco and oilseed products but also included 25.4 million baby chicks worth $17.3 million.

American farmers also shipped abroad 12,000 head of horses, asses, mules and burros worth about $6.8 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Further tests have shown that "chemical shearing" of sheep does not adversely affect the sheep, wool or lambs, says the Agriculture Department.

Chemical shearing still experimental and a long way from use by farmers, involves a chemical called cyclophosphamide or CPA.

Scientists at the department's Agricultural Research Service center at Beltsville, Md., found that when oral doses are administered to sheep their wool can be broken off or peeled from the surface of the skin.

CPA works by constricting the wool fiber at the point of formation," the department said.

As the wool grows, the constriction comes to the surface of the skin where the fiber can be broken off. If the wool is removed 7 to 12 days after treatment with CPA, the sheep is left virtually naked.

Agricultural scientists became interested in the chemical's sheep-peeling possibilities after medical research with it showed human patients lost their hair.

An ARS spokesman said more extensive and long-range tests must be conducted before any attempt is made to have the chemical approved by the Food and Drug Administration for sheep-peeling.

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans have been announced for the state's first million-dollar super-lottery.

State lottery officials said Monday that $3 tickets for the top prize probably will go on sale Friday.

In addition to the super-prize, which the winner may have paid in $50,000 installments over 20 years to cut the tax bite, there will be a second prize of $100,000; third prize of $50,000; fourth prize of $25,000; 10 fifth prizes of $5,000 each, and 130 other prizes ranging down to $1,000.

New York's regular lottery has monthly drawings with $100,000 top prizes and bonus drawings periodically in which the prize is $250,000. Its tickets cost $1.

Plug for Taxi Driver

We suppose that differences of opinion will exist forever on the subject of services provided by proprietors or employees of business establishments.

It's the same traveling on the road or in the air. We have found that on vacation trips service varies in restaurants, gas stations or motels; likewise on airplanes where hostesses in their service techniques are as dissimilar as waitresses in eating places. Often it is a challenge for patrons to keep their cool.

Service people will tell you that they have difficulty keeping their own cool when they encounter some customers whose dispositions are often sour. All of this would probably come out even stephen in a poll of both sides.

A recent complaint was registered specifically against taxi service in Sedalia. This business does have problems trying to satisfy the public. But the service can't be all deficient.

For instance a Sedalia woman came out in defense of the taxi service and cited personal experience to balance with that of the previous negative comment of another reader. Here's what she has to say:

"I called a cab one day when it was pouring rain. I asked to be at a place by ten minutes to one o'clock. The cab came at approximately 12:30. I mentioned it was early. In reply the driver said they had a cab available then, and to insure that I get to the place on time he came for me. He did have one other passenger and if need be he would drive the long way so I would arrive at the time I had specified.

"Furthermore, he even kept my umbrella in the cab so I would not be encumbered with it. I called the same cab to come home and there was my umbrella, like he said. He also had other passengers and I was home in about ten minutes and I was the last one out! My trip that day was not a short one, it took me to the edge of the city limits.

"I feel I got very thoughtful and considerate service"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

After U.S. Pulls Out, What Then?

WASHINGTON — As the deadline approaches for the U.S. withdrawal from Cambodia, an ominous question mark hangs heavily over that unhappy land.

American strategists are asking whether the Lon Nol government can survive without U.S. ground forces to hold off the fierce North Vietnamese.

The American lunge across the border has driven the North Vietnamese inland where they now hold a dagger at Lon Nol's throat. If President Nixon considered it essential to destroy the communist sanctuaries along the border, the strategists ask, could he sit by while the communists took over all of Cambodia?

The strategists don't believe that the South Vietnamese, for all their new bravado, could prevent a Communist conquest of Cambodia. The inside reason the U.S. didn't let the South Vietnamese clean out the sanctuaries alone, in the first place, is that the South Vietnamese army couldn't spare enough battleworthy troops to do the job.

There is secret intelligence that the North Vietnamese had intended to install a Communist regime in Phnom Penh before the American intervention. The deposed Prince Sihanouk had been reduced to puppet status, and his "liberation" movement was firmly in Communist hands. He was merely being used as a front for the takeover.

Even his statements were written for him by his Communist backers. In place of his own colorful style, the statements were laced with dull, dry Marxist jargon.

Militiamen carrying Sihanouk's banner began to emerge from the rain forests. But they needed Cambodian interpreters to communicate with the curious Cambodians who came to greet them. For the soldiers were Viet Cong in Sihanouk's uniforms.

— Timetable Wrecked —

The U.S. intervention, apparently, interrupted the timetable for the takeover. But the Americans also pushed the Communists deeper into Cambodia, where they will be in a better position to resume their mischief after the U.S. departure. The destruction of their sanctuaries, of course, may

Thought for Today

Whereas you do not know about tomorrow. What is your life? For you are a mist that appears for a little time and then vanishes. — James 4:14.

Live your life so that whenever you lose, you're ahead. — Will Rogers, American humorist.

deprive them temporarily of the weapons they need for a major offensive.

My associate Les Whitten, writing from Phnom Penh, reports that the delightful, quixotic Cambodian people are determined to defend their country. But they are pathetically unprepared for war.

Whitten gives this description of the preparations in Phnom Penh:

"At the foot of the 15th-century shrine is a green wall with a pagoda-like soft drink stand and benches. There the mothers bring their babies. In hot weather the children, up to about four years old, play naked on the mall.

"In the past they frolicked aimlessly. Now the three-year-olds, their brown bodies glistening with sweat, imitate war. They drop to their bellies, lisping 'zt', the Khmer equivalent of 'bang bang.'

"The steep incline of the shrine hill itself is used by the young city boys to train for the army. They look up sheepishly when a stranger pauses to watch them fall and crawl among the stylized lions and statues of warriors with grotesque leers and broad swords.

"On the other side of the shrine is a continuation of the mall. Men and girls, no more than a day in uniform, are learning to drill there. The girls laugh with shrill good humor when they make a mistake.

"Away from the mall, the graceful old trees planted by the French when they made Cambodia a protectorate 106 years ago bear posters in French and the squiggly Cambodian. One says:

"Americans! Drive the Viet Cong from our borders. Thank you."

"Cambodian soldiers, brave and laughing or brave and serious, stand or sit behind sandbags with their carbines, bolt-action rifles or dagger-bayoneted machine guns of Chinese make.

— Autos Are Own Pass —

"At dusk, all two-wheeled vehicles are banned from the streets. The Cambodians are aware that Viet Cong on bicycles or motorcycles have terrorized Saigon with their satchels of bombs hurled from two-wheeled vehicles. The theory is that a man with money for a car is not likely to be a Viet Cong, so most autos are allowed to pass.

"Now along the Mekong, the sun falls and catches a motley of colors in the refugee camps that house more than 10,000 Vietnamese. The clashing colors appear in the quilts that tent out the sun.

"The refugees keep their hovels and makeshift tents neat. There is nothing else to do but sweep and sleep. For only four hours each day can they walk around the streets outside the walls of the school and church yards which have been turned into refugee camps.

"Everywhere there are posters showing Cambodian soldiers crushing Viet Cong troops beneath their feet. Often Americans with kindly Oriental faces are shown on the side of the Cambodians.

"Uniformed men are on all the streets, none of them Americans. And spirits are zesty. But now the Cambodians fighting 30 miles from here have gotten down to the serious business of dying, if only in small numbers. They fight well for soldiers with so little training.

"In a word, the atmosphere is what it must have been in Washington before the deadly awakening of First Bull Run.

"So the babies sport innocently at war on the green. And the high school girls titter as they try to hold their old bolt-action guns on their thin young shoulders. They have not yet seen the legless men carted like fragile sacks of breaking eggs into the new hospital-built, as one of the many ironies of this strange place, with $10 million in Soviet aid."

"Have you heard the good news?" five-year-old Clarissa asked her grandfather when he answered the telephone one day.

Grandfather pondered a few minutes. He couldn't think of any particularly good news that he had heard.

"No," he told her finally. "I don't think I have."

"I can dial," said the little girl proudly. H. L.

Open Debate on the Issues Accents Unity, Not Dissent

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Daily we read reports this nation is becoming more polarized—that divisions are sharpening between rich and poor, white and black, liberal and conservative, youth and the Establishment.

Crime and violence increase. Experts see worse ahead. Some question whether our institutions can survive.

On the contrary, this reporter believes our nation is coming closer together, our institutions growing stronger.

We have known racial bitterness for two centuries—but kept it under cover. In the end, opening these sores to public argument will bring people closer.

In an earlier era, the time of violence came when the Inquisition began to ease. The open turmoil in eastern Europe began when the Soviet Union lowered restrictions for a period. Black rioting spread here when the lot of the Negro was made a little better.

More crime is reported today. Perhaps, in part, this is because we have gone so far in insuring men's legal rights that we have created loopholes through which skilled lawyers can make a mockery of the law. It may be, in fact, that we have erred seriously in this. But remember, that if what we have done was a mistake, it was not because the Cosa Nostra forced us to the well. It was not hatred for men. It was rather our good intentions, our love for men, that made us give even wanton killers these unprecedented rights. And we have the ability under our system to read at our techniques to bring legal justice back into balance.

Bitter dissatisfaction with war has been traditional in the United States. Many settlers came to escape the constant wars in their homelands. Some historians estimate 30 to 40 per cent of Americans were opposed to fighting the Revolution. Many objected to the Civil War; more than a thousand men were killed in draft riots in New York alone. Abraham Lincoln for a time authorized suspension of habeas corpus. World Wars I and II engendered much silent opposition. President Eisenhower campaigned for the presidency on a pledge to stop the Korean war.

Historically, the press has played down dissatisfaction in wartime. But this censorship (sometimes mandatory, sometimes voluntary) has given a false appearance of uniformity in thought. Today's raucous headlines are confusing—flaunting the opposition of almost every group that denounces the government or the war. This freedom sometimes gives a picture of overwhelming dissent when there is unity. But this reporter believes that in the end this freedom, however misused at times, will give us new strength.

There are few violent protest parades in Moscow. Pravda makes no harsh criticisms against the government. Soviet television shows no Russian students carrying banners. We know this is not evidence either of unity or of strength.

It takes a greatness for a country to investigate itself as thoroughly as we are now looking into what happened at My Lai. It is a sign of maturity for a country to debate so openly the rightness of a war in which it is engaged, to question national priorities in space and in defense and to ask with such force whether we are doing all that we should in poverty, education, pollution control and in giving all men their just rights.

We aren't going to get into an argument with anyone about the merit or lack of merit in North's bidding. If you want to pass this type of hand we won't argue nor will we criticize this sort of opening bid. As for the second round five hearts, North had started and didn't want to stop. At least it had the merit of success. Had he passed, West would have made his five clubs.

If West had been playing with see-through cards he would have opened a diamond and South would have been automatically down one. However, he put the king of clubs on the table.

South ruffed, led a trump to his hand and a spade to dummy's king. At this point East made the brilliant play of ducking.

South had played rapidly so far. The next plays were very slow but nothing could do him any good. He was doomed to defeat.

"Nice bidding, partner," said South. "They were cold for five clubs."

"Thank you, partner," replied North. "It's too bad you didn't give them the full treatment and make your contract."

South should have led dummy's king of spades at trick two while still keeping three trumps in dummy. All those three trumps would have been entries and if East ducked South would simply lead a second spade and there would be no way to keep him from setting up the last two spades for discards of his two diamonds. As a matter of fact, this time the duck would have given him an overtrick.

Road 'Dragons'

By BETTY CANARY

There has been much ado about legislation allowing an increase in the size of trucks. States still have the right to set size and weight limits under federal minimums. I thought it would be well to get a trucker's opinion on whether bigger behemoths should be allowed on the nation's highways.

"You're Andy O'Connor?" I asked the driver.

"My friends call me Axles," he said.

"I see. Do you think it wise to put even heavier trucks on the road?"

"Some people call me Knight of the Open Road."

"Just answer the question, please."

"Sounds great to me," he said. "Bigger trucks would definitely speed up the traffic flow."

Glancing at the expressway, where cars were scurrying along before trucks like mice before elephants, I had to agree with him. Give the average American motorist a chance to escape and he's going to TRY.

"It is my opinion," I said politely, "that heavier trucks would benefit nobody but the trucking companies."

"According to the American Trucking Association, an increase in truck width would permit marked improvement in stability and additional length would make it possible to build safer trucks."

"Safer for whom?" I asked.

"Look at it this way," Axles said. "How many people complain about the length and width of a train?"

"Well, not many of us drive on train tracks," I pointed out.

"Look at the sign on my truck," he said.

"Flammable!" I read.

"Not THAT one!"

I looked again. Another sign said, "This vehicle pays $4,870 in road taxes annually."

"How much is $4,870 in cement?" I asked.

"You're one of those!" he said disgustedly.

"You're going to complain that we tear up the roads!"

"You'll have to admit — trains don't."

"But," he asked slyly, "do railroad engineers blink their lights to tell you when it's safe to pass?"

"Again — I never drive down the tracks."

"O.K.! How about picking out good places to eat? Don't you know everybody says 'Truckers know the best places to eat'?"

"I'd prefer talking about accident statistics," I said. "According to the American Automobile Association, heavy trucks account for 1.54 per cent of total registrations, drive only 5.33 per cent of all miles of travel, but were involved in 11.6 per cent of fatal accidents."

He drove away while I was talking. The last I saw of Axles, he was hitting the air brakes and easing his truck in between two others. One was labeled Wide Load. The other, Explosives.

Leukemia Victims Helped by New Drugs

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What are the symptoms of leukemia? Do you diagnose it by a spinal tap or a blood count? What is the best remedy? Is there any foundation devoted to the study of this disease?

A — There are several types of leukemia. The onset may be sudden or gradual. Common symptoms include weakness, pallor, shortness of breath and fever. Other symptoms would depend on the part of the body involved. In making the diagnosis chief reliance is placed on the great increase in certain types of white blood cells.

Although there is no cure, more than a dozen new drugs have been found to benefit the victims. Often they are used in combination and the best combination in a given case must be found by clinical trial. For further details you may write to the Leukemia Society of America, 211 East 43rd St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Q — Is it safe to rent a furnished apartment that was formerly occupied by a person who had leukemia? Should I disinfect it?

A — Despite the fact that leukemia appears to be a virus disease, it is not readily passed from person to person. This is very rare for two members of a family to get it. No disinfection of the apartment beyond thorough cleaning one usually does when moving is necessary.

Q — How does one get lice? What do they look like? Sometimes I feel something crawling all over me but I can't find anything. Could that be lice?

A — The three types — body, head and pubic lice — neither fly nor jump but they do get around. With no sense of loyalty or gratitude, they will leave one human host to live with another. Body lice live on the clothing rather than on the skin and take time out about twice a day to bite the host. They are pale gray and about 3/16-inch long.

Head lice attach individual eggs to hairs. They can be removed with a vinegar shampoo followed by the use of a fine tooth comb. A pubic louse is only one-twenty-fifth inch long, square in shape and becomes firmly attached to a pubic hair. It is brownish in color.

The feeling that something is crawling on your skin, however, is not characteristic of louse infestation but rather of nervous tension.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Legal Whims — It strikes us that some American jurists, in their wish to protect men's constitutional rights, sometimes go unjustifiably far afield. In doing so, they weaken justice rather than strengthen it.

Take the case of a young woman, who in 1965, was convicted of manslaughter in the killing of her child. She has just won reversal on the ground that a visit to the crime scene by three jurors was prejudicial to a fair trial.

Perhaps it was. But should such a slight indiscretion or act of unwisdom be sufficient to outweigh the totality of other evidence? Should it be enough to throw out the entire public case? Is there no such thing as a higher court's being able to weigh all the evidence and rule on that, not on merely one minor incident?

We are not seeking to judge this woman's guilt or unguilt when we say that, frankly, we question whether this higher court, like many another court in the country of late, acted on a legal whim. We feel that there is reason to question whether such decisions do not make a mockery of attempts to reach justice. If any little slip can overbear the whole weight of contrary evidence and throw out what would otherwise seem to be a logical decision, is not this counterproductive? We suggest a broader and deeper wisdom on the part of jurists.

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. B. N. who wanted to make the cord to her electric kitchen clock less conspicuous. I would suggest that the clock be hung above an outlet, cut a hole in the wall and "fish" the cord through to the outlet opening below. Either connect the wires directly to the receptacle (back side) or bring the cord through the wall and plug in. Turn the electricity off while you work.

Another method would be to have an electrician place an outlet directly behind the clock. Shorten the cord so it does not drape down and you are in business.—ROBERT

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. B. N. could paint the conspicuous cord on her electric kitchen clock the same color as the wall.—LaVERNE

DEAR POLLY—We use a lot of toothbrushes at our house so I buy them on sale when possible. I can never find "soft" and often not even "medium" ones and my children complain about the "hard" ones. I wonder if there is a way to soften them before they are used.—LILY

DEAR POLLY—It would be nice if thoughtful friends who send notes and cards of sympathy would be sure to add their addresses so the task of sending cards of appreciation would be made easier for the family.—SON

DEAR READERS—When writing such notes be sure to add your last name as the family may have two or three friends named Helen or John.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—A friend of mine has two small boys and a bowl of gold fish. To avoid confusion she has a small piece of cardboard placed next to the bowl. One side says "Fed" and the other says "Not Fed." Every day after one of the boys feeds the fish he turns the card over. I have always heard that fish can die from being overfed. This not only prevents overfeeding but also arguments about whether or not the fish have been fed.—MELISSA

We suppose that differences of opinion will exist forever on the subject of services provided by proprietors or employees of business establishments.

It's the same traveling on the road or in the air. We have found that on vacation trips service varies in restaurants, gas stations or motels; likewise on airplanes where hostesses in their service techniques are as dissimilar as waitresses in eating places. Often it is a challenge for patrons to keep their cool.

Service people will tell you that they have difficulty keeping their own cool when they encounter some customers whose dispositions are often sour. All of this would probably come out even stephen in a poll of both sides.

A recent complaint was registered specifically against taxi service in Sedalia. This business does have problems trying to satisfy the public. But the service can't be all deficient.

For instance a Sedalia woman came out in defense of the taxi service and cited personal experience to balance with that of the previous negative comment of another reader. Here's what she has to say:

"I called a cab one day when it was pouring rain. I asked to be at a place by ten minutes to one o'clock. The cab came at approximately 12:30. I mentioned it was early. In reply the driver said they had a cab available then, and to insure that I get to the place on time he came for me. He did have one other passenger and if need be he would drive the long way so I would arrive at the time I had specified.

"Furthermore, he even kept my umbrella in the cab so I would not be encumbered with it. I called the same cab to come home and there was my umbrella, like he said. He also had other passengers and I was home in about ten minutes and I was the last one out! My trip that day was not a short one, it took me to the edge of the city limits.

"I feel I got very thoughtful and considerate service."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

After U.S. Pulls Out, What Then?

WASHINGTON — As the deadline approaches for the U.S. withdrawal from Cambodia, an ominous question mark hangs heavily over that unhappy land.

American strategists are asking whether the Lon Nol government can survive without U.S. ground forces to hold off the fierce North Vietnamese.

The American lunge across the border has driven the North Vietnamese inland where they now hold a dagger at Lon Nol's throat. If President Nixon considered it essential to destroy the communist sanctuaries along the border, the strategists ask, could he sit by while the communists took over all of Cambodia?

The strategists don't believe that the South Vietnamese, for all their new bravado, could prevent a Communist conquest of Cambodia. The inside reason the U.S. didn't let the South Vietnamese clean out the sanctuaries alone, in the first place, is that the South Vietnamese army couldn't spare enough battleworthy troops to do the job.

There is secret intelligence that the North Vietnamese had intended to install a Communist regime in Phnom Penh before the American intervention. The deposed Prince Sihanouk had been reduced to puppet status, and his "liberation" movement was firmly in Communist hands. He was merely being used as a front for the takeover.

Even his statements were written for him by his Communist backers. In place of his own colorful style, the statements were laced with dull, dry Marxist jargon.

Militiamen carrying Sihanouk's banner began to emerge from the rain forests. But they needed Cambodian interpreters to communicate with the curious Cambodians who came to greet them. For the soldiers were Viet Cong in Sihanouk's uniforms.

deprive them temporarily of the weapons they need for a major offensive.

My associate Les Whitten, writing from Phnom Penh, reports that the delightful, quixotic Cambodian people are determined to defend their country. But they are pathetically unprepared for war.

Whitten gives this description of the preparations in Phnom Penh:

"At the foot of the 15th-century shrine is a green wall with a pagoda-like soft drink stand and benches. There the mothers bring their babies. In hot weather the children, up to about four years old, play naked on the mall.

"In the past they trodden aimlessly. Now the three-year-olds, their brown bodies glistening with sweat, imitate war. They drop to their bellies, lisping 'ztt,' the Khmer equivalent of 'bang bang.'

"The steep incline of the shrine hill itself is used by the young city boys to train for the army. They look up sheepishly when a stranger pauses to watch them fall and crawl among the stylized lions and statues of warriors with grotesque leers and broad swords.

"On the other side of the shrine is a continuation of the mall. Men and girls, no more than a day in uniform, are learning to drill there. The girls laugh with shrill good humor when they make a mistake.

"Away from the mall, the graceful old trees planted by the French when they made Cambodia a protectorate 106 years ago bear posters in French and the squiggly Cambodian. One says:

"Americans! Drive the Viet Cong from our borders. Thank you."

"Cambodian soldiers, brave and laughing or brave and serious, stand or sit behind sandbags with their carbines, bolt-action rifles or dagger-bayoneted machine guns of Chinese make.

— Autos Are Own Pass —

"At dusk, all two-wheeled vehicles are banned from the streets. The Cambodians are aware that Viet Cong on bicycles or motorcycles have terrorized Saigon with their satchels of bombs hurled from two-wheeled vehicles. The theory is that a man with money for a car is not likely to be a Viet Cong, so most autos are allowed to pass.

"Now along the Mekong, the sun falls and catches a motley of colors in the refugee camps that house more than 10,000 Vietnamese. The clashing colors appear in the quilts that tent out the sun.

"The refugees keep their hovels and makeshift tents neat. There is nothing else to do but sweep and sleep. For only four hours each day can they walk around the streets outside the walls of the school and church yards which have been turned into refugee camps.

"Everywhere there are posters showing Cambodian soldiers crushing Viet Cong troops beneath their feet. Often Americans with kindly Oriental faces are shown on the side of the Cambodians.

"Uniformed men are on all the streets, none of them Americans. And spirits are zesty. But now the Cambodians fighting 30 miles from here have gotten down to the serious business of dying, if only in small numbers. They fight well for soldiers with so little training.

"In a word, the atmosphere is what it must have been in Washington before the deadly awakening of First Bull Run.

"So the babies sport innocently at war on the green. And the high school girls titter as they try to hold their old bolt-action guns on their thin young shoulders. They have not yet seen the legless men carted like fragile sacks of breaking eggs into the new hospital built, as one of the many ironies of this strange place, with $10 million in Soviet aid."

Open Debate on the Issues Accents Unity, Not Dissent

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Daily we read reports this nation is becoming more polarized—that divisions are sharpening between rich and poor, white and black, liberal and conservative, youth and the Establishment.

Crime and violence increase. Experts see worse ahead. Some question whether our institutions can survive.

On the contrary, this reporter believes our nation is coming closer together, our institutions growing stronger.

We have known racial bitterness for two centuries—but kept it under cover. In the end, opening these sores to public argument will bring people closer.

In an earlier era, the time of violence came when the Inquisition began to ease. The open turmoil in eastern Europe began when the Soviet Union lowered restrictions for a period. Black rioting spread here when the lot of the Negro was made a little better.

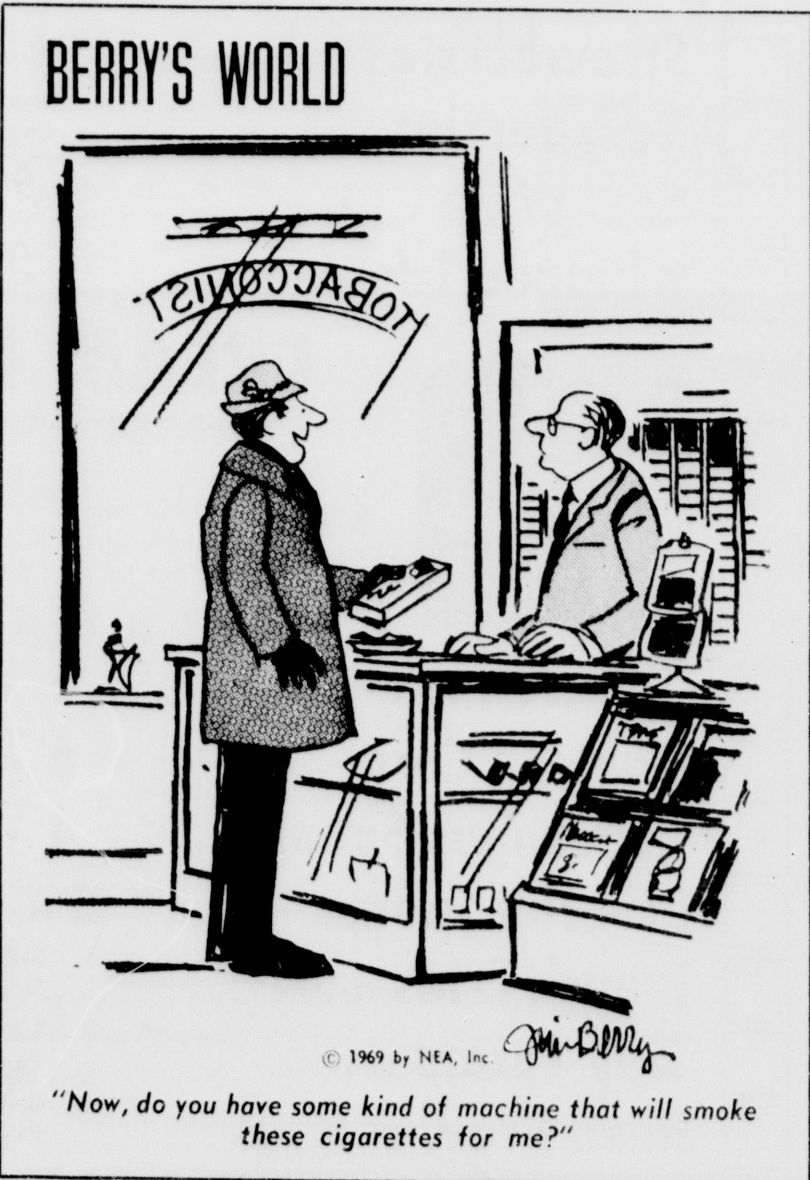

More crime is reported today. Perhaps, in part, this is because we have gone so far in insuring men's legal rights that we have created loopholes through which skilled lawyers can make a mockery of the law. It may be, in fact, that we have erred seriously in this. But remember, that if what we have done was a mistake, it was not because the Cosa Nostra forced us to the well. It was not hatred for men. It was rather our good intentions, our love for men, that made us give even wanton killers these unprecedented rights. And we have the ability under our system to read at our techniques to bring legal justice back into balance.

Bitter dissatisfaction with war has been traditional in the United States. Many settlers came to escape the constant wars in their homelands. Some historians estimate 30 to 40 per cent of Americans were opposed to fighting the Revolution. Many objected to the Civil War; more than a thousand men were killed in draft riots in New York alone. Abraham Lincoln for a time authorized suspension of habeas corpus. World Wars I and II engendered much silent opposition. President Eisenhower campaigned for the presidency on a pledge to stop the Korean war.

Historically, the press has played down dissatisfaction in wartime. But this censorship (sometimes mandatory, sometimes voluntary) has given a false appearance of uniformity in thought. Today's raucous headlines are confusing—flaunting the opposition of almost every group that denounces the government or the war. This freedom sometimes gives a picture of overwhelming dissent when there is unity. But this reporter believes that in the end this freedom, however misused at times, will give us new strength.

There are few violent protest parades in Moscow. Pravda makes no harsh criticisms against the government. Soviet television shows no Russian students carrying banners. We know this is not evidence either of unity or of strength.

It takes a greatness for a country to investigate itself as thoroughly as we are now looking into what happened at My Lai. It is a sign of maturity for a country to debate so openly the rightness of a war in which it is engaged, to question national priorities in space and in defense and to ask with such force whether we are doing all that we should in poverty, education, pollution control and in giving all men their just rights.

Leukemia Victims Helped by New Drugs

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What are the symptoms of leukemia? Do you diagnose it by a spinal tap or a blood count? What is the best remedy? Is there any foundation devoted to the study of this disease?

A — There are several types of leukemia. The onset may be sudden or gradual. Common symptoms include weakness, pallor, shortness of breath and fever. Other symptoms would depend on the part of the body involved. In making the diagnosis chief reliance is placed on the great increase in certain types of white blood cells.

Although there is no cure, more than a dozen new drugs have been found to benefit the victims. Often they are used in combination and the best combination in a given case must be found by clinical trial. For further details you may write to the Leukemia Society of America, 211 East 43rd St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Q — Is it safe to rent a furnished apartment that was formerly occupied by a person who had leukemia? Should I disinfect it?

A — Despite the fact that leukemia appears to be a virus disease, it is not readily passed from person to person. Thus it is very rare for two members of a family to get it. No disinfection of the apartment beyond thorough cleaning one usually does when moving is necessary.

Q — How does one get lice? What do they look like? Sometimes I feel something crawling all over me but I can't find anything. Could that be lice?

A — The three types — body, head and pubic lice — neither fly nor jump but they do get around. With no sense of loyalty or gratitude, they will leave one human host to live with another. Body lice live on the clothing rather than on the skin and take time out about twice a day to bite the host. They are pale gray and about 1/8-inch long.

Head lice attach individual eggs to hairs. They can be removed with a vinegar shampoo followed by the use of a fine tooth comb. A pubic louse is only one-twenty-fifth-inch long, square in shape and becomes firmly attached to a pubic hair. It is brownish in color.

The feeling that something is crawling on your skin, however, is not characteristic of louse infestation but rather of nervous tension.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Legal Whims. — It strikes us that some American jurists, in their wish to protect men's constitutional rights, sometimes go unjustifiably far afield. In doing so, they weaken justice rather than strengthen it.

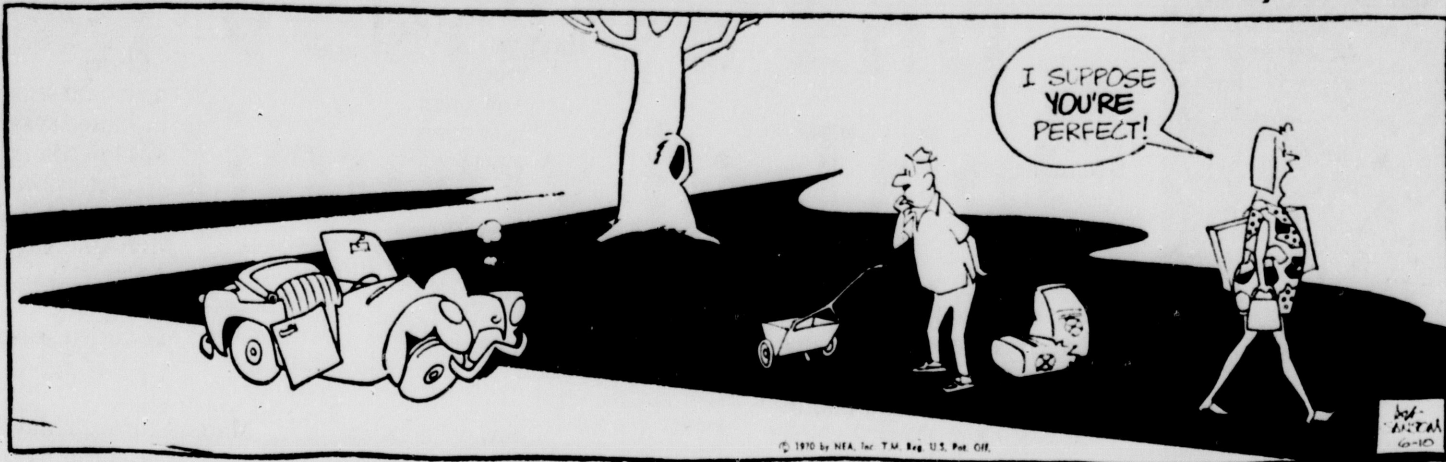

Take the case of a young woman, who, in 1965, was convicted of manslaughter in the killing of her child. She has just won reversal on the ground that a visit to the crime scene by three jurors was prejudicial to a fair trial.

Perhaps it was. But should such a slight indiscretion or act of unwisdom be sufficient to outweigh the totality of other evidence? Should it be enough to throw out the entire public case? Is there no such thing as a higher court's being able to weigh all the evidence and rule on that, not on merely one minor incident?

We are not seeking to judge this woman's guilt or unguilt when we say that, frankly, we question whether this higher court, like many another court in the country of late, acted on a legal whim. We feel that there is reason to question whether such decisions do not make a mockery of attempts to reach justice. If any little slip can overbear the whole weight of contrary evidence and throw out what would otherwise seem to be a logical decision, is not this counterproductive? We suggest a broader and deeper wisdom on the part of jurists.

Conceal Clock's Cord
By Passing Through Wall

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. B. N. who wanted to make the cord to her electric kitchen clock less conspicuous. I would suggest that the clock be hung above an outlet, cut a hole in the wall and "fish" the cord through the outlet opening below. Either connect the wires directly to the receptacle (back side) or bring the cord through the wall and plug in. Turn the electricity off while you work.

Another method would be to have an electrician place an outlet directly behind the clock. Shorten the cord so it does not drape down and you are in business.—ROBERT

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. B. N. could paint the conspicuous cord on her electric kitchen clock the same color as the wall.—LAVERNE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We use a lot of toothbrushes at our house so I buy them on sale when possible. I can never find "soft" and often not even "medium" ones and my children complain about the "hard" ones. I wonder if there is a way to soften them before they are used.—LILY

DEAR POLLY—It would be nice if thoughtful friends who send notes and cards of sympathy would be sure to add their addresses so the task of sending cards of appreciation would be made easier for the family.—SON

DEAR READERS—When writing such notes be sure to add your last name as the family may have two or three friends named Helen or John.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—A friend of mine has two small boys and a bowl of gold fish. To avoid confusion she has a small piece of cardboard placed next to the bowl. One side says "Fed" and the other says "Not Fed." Every day after one of the boys feeds the fish he turns the card over. I have always heard that fish can die from being overfed. This not only prevents overfeeding but also arguments about whether or not the fish have been fed.—MELISSA

Royals Give Lemon Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Kansas City Royals made Bob Lemon's managerial debut a success Tuesday night by scoring their most runs of the season in an 8-1 victory over the Washington Senators. The game opened a 12-game home stand for the Royals.

The St. Louis Cardinals also had reason to be jubilant. They shut out the Dodgers in Los Angeles 4-0 with Chuck Taylor, making his first start of the season after 21 relief appearances, limiting the Dodgers to five singles.

Third baseman Bob Oliver got his 11th home run, a triple and a single to pace the Royals to victory and made it easy for right-hander Dick Drago to register his fourth triumph against four defeats.

Kansas City broke loose for four runs in the opening inning on Pat Kelly's double, Paul Schaal's walk, successive triples by Amos Otis and Oliver and a sacrifice fly by Lou Piniella. The assault came against the Senators' Casey Cox, 3-5.

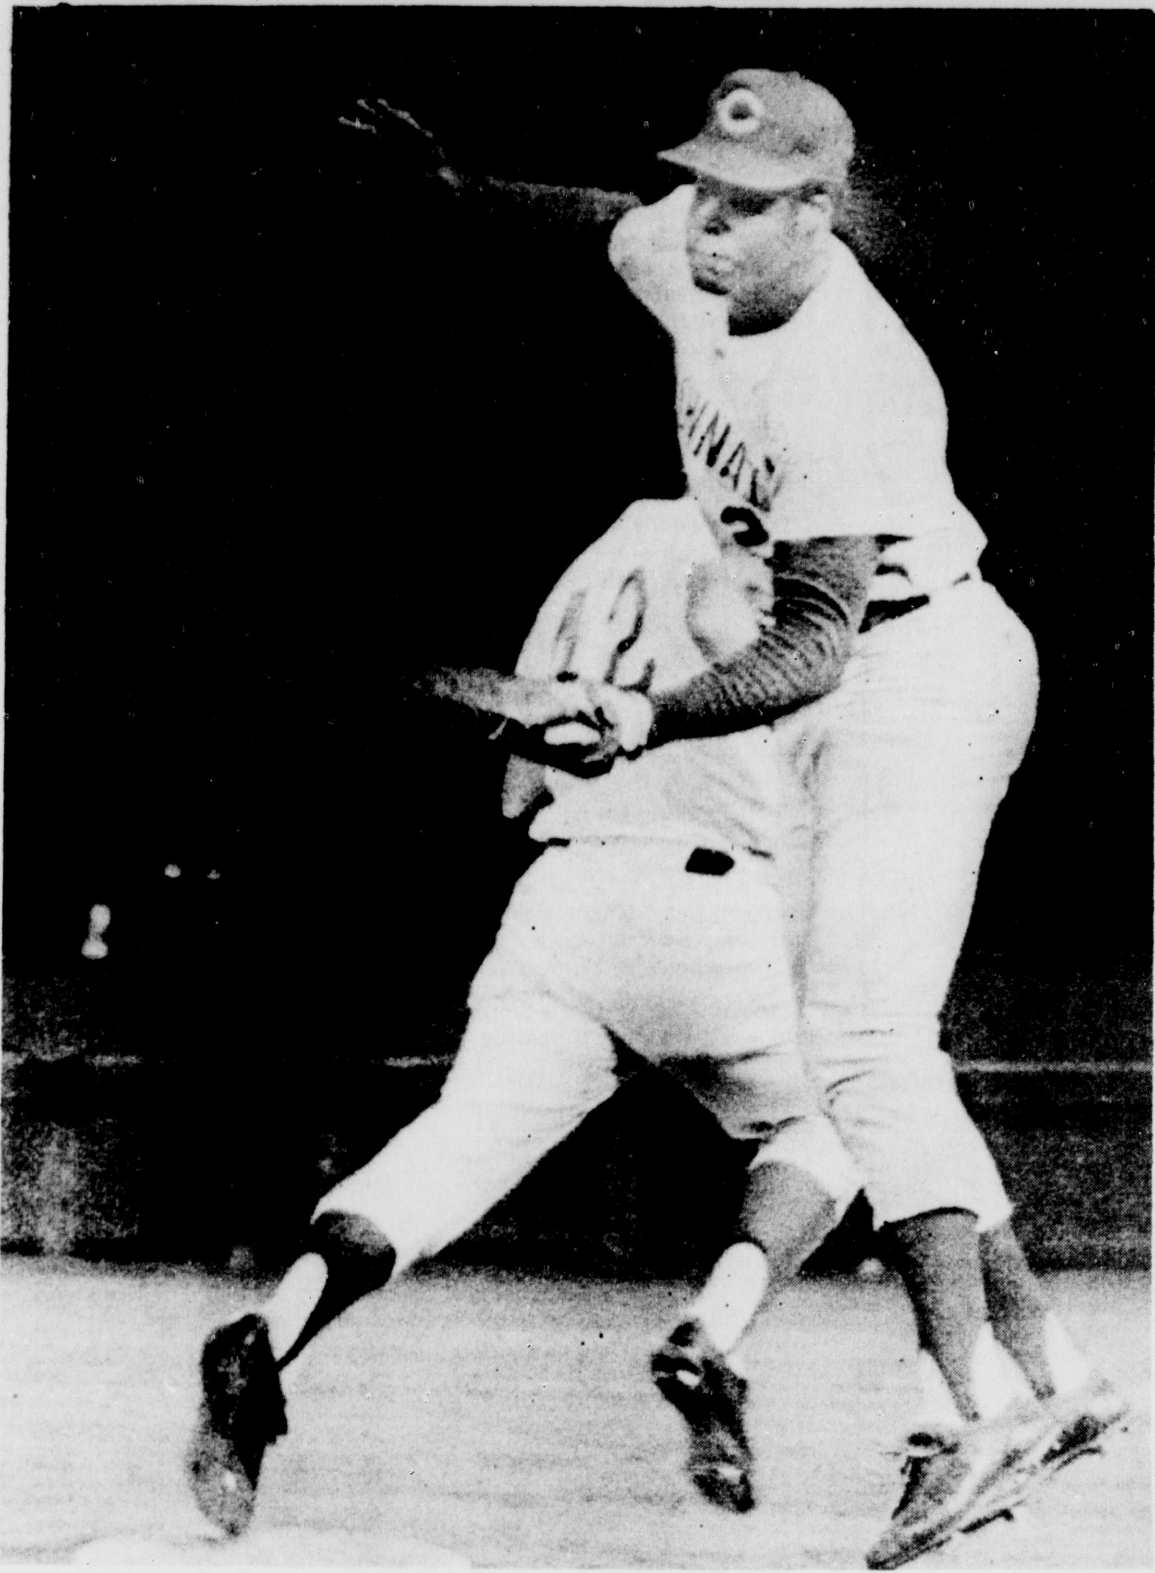

Drago went the distance, allowing seven hits, walking three and striking out three.

Lou Brock scored a first-inning run for St. Louis, coming home when Joe Torre hit into a bases-loaded double play. Actually, that run was all Taylor needed for the second shutout of his career, both against the Dodgers.

St. Louis added another run in the sixth and two in the seventh and ended Claude Osteen's winning streak at five straight. Tonight the Royals send Jim Rooker, 3-3, against Washington's Joe Coleman, 3-4. St. Louis will start Mike Torrez, 4-5, at Los Angeles against Joe Moeller, 1-1.

Cross-Up at First

Montreal Expos' Jim Gosger (42) collides with Cincinnati's first baseman Lee May in the fifth inning of the Expos-Reds game, Tuesday in Montreal. Gosger had just hit a ball past May into the right field corner for a triple. The two collided as Gosger rounded first base. The Reds won the game, 6-4.

Sikes Leads Qualifiers

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Dan Sikes not only considers himself a pretty good golfer, he proved it Tuesday by leading the sectional qualifying for the U.S. Open.

Sikes, a four veteran, shot a sizzling nine-under-par 135 over 36 holes at Atlanta for the best score turned in at seven qualifying sites around the country where 484 players competed for 77 openings.

"I played as well as I could play," said Sikes after carding 10 birdies on the 6,942-yard East Lake Country Club course. "Until I got tired. I didn't make a bogey and that came on the 16th in my afternoon round."

"I was real nervous starting out. If you consider yourself a good player, you feel like you've got to make it."

His rounds were his 17th consecutive competitive sub-par rounds, covering play in the Atlanta, Memphis and Charlotte tour tournaments.

Fred Whisler Grabs Lead At Speedway

ODESSA — Fred Whisler of Liberty, Mo., has finally taken over the late model stock car point lead at 1-70 Speedway with his 1970 Torino.

Dave Wall of Kansas City, Mo., who has held onto that lead for most of the young season, trails Whisler in second place.

Whisler has a ten-point edge over Wall, 932½-922½, while Terry Bivins of Shawnee Mission, Kan., is in third.

Standings
Fred Whisler	932½
Dave Wall	922½
Terry Bivins	587½
Gene Chapman	462½
Roy McClellan	457½
Lewis Taylor	432½
Jim Still	405
Gordie Blankenship	315
Jim Hager	310
Harold Young	310

Most of the other four veterans who tried Tuesday for a spot in the Open at Chaska, Minn. June 18-21 made it, but the toll included two former Open and PGA champions and Doug Sanders, Jack Fleckman, Grier Jones, Mike Souchak and Randy Glover.

Sanders, 152, Fleckman, 150, and Larry Hinson, 148, missed the cut at the Cog's Hill course in Chicago where 139 players competed for 35 berths.

Former Open champ Ed Furgol and former PGA winners Jim Turnesa and Doug Ford along with Jones, failed to make it at Woodmere, N.Y., while Glover missed at Atlanta, former Open winner Lew Worsham was cut at Pittsburgh and Souchak at Detroit.

Mason Rudolph, with a seven-under-par 137, led a batch of pros who made it at Chicago, where the Western Open will be played this week. Monty Kaser was next at 139 and Bob Goolby, Labron Harris, Chris Blocker and Don Bies had 141s.

Two former open champions, Tommy Bolt and Jack Fleck, were in at 142. Bog Shaw 143. Chi Chi Rodriguez 145 and Gay Brewer 147.

Paul Harney had a six-under-par 136 in a field of 107 trying for 13 spots at Woodmere, two strokes better than last week's British Amateur runnerup Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia. Tom Nieporte won a playoff for the final place.

Tour veteran Larry Ziegler led at St. Louis with a 142, with Steve Reid qualifying at 148 and Dutch Harrison missing, and three young pros led the way in the other sites.

Mike Hill, younger brother of tour hot shot Dave Hill, posted a 138, six under par, in a field of 33 hopefuls at Detroit. He was joined by George Knudson and Al Balding at 142.

Bobby Cole, a 22-year-old South African, also carded a six-under-par 138 at Pittsburgh and Ricky Meissner of Bullrun, Va., qualified in his 10th month as a pro with a 141, three-under par, at Burtonsville, Md., near

Washington, D.C. Lee Elder also made it at 145.

A total of 150 players will compete in the Open, 34 of them exempt as former Open or PGA champions within the last five years, the U.S. Amateur and British Open champs, the 15 low scorers in the 1969 Open and the 15 leading players on the PGA tour.

CMRA Announces Race Date Change

Officials of the Central Missouri Racing Association have announced that the supermodified show at Bolivar Speedway, near Bolivar, Mo., will be held Tuesday.

The race was originally scheduled for June 2, but due to the heavy racing slate during the Memorial Day Weekend, the race was rescheduled.

Jewell Kidwell, an official for the CMRA, said that 20-25 cars are expected to participate on the three-eighths mile track.

Due to the added distance that the drivers will have to travel, the time trials will be held at 8 p.m., with the first race set for 8:30 p.m.

Lemon Realizes Dream

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bob Lemon, one-fourth of the Cleveland Indians' vaunted pitching brigade of the late 1940s and early 1950s, at last has realized a desire that has sifted through his dreams for 12 long years.

He's been named manager of the Kansas City Royals.

The Royals fired Charlie Metro and appointed pitching coach Lemon as his successor Tuesday. A few hours later the team went on its wild west scoring spree of the season and clobbered the Washington Senators 8-1.

Speedway Will Host Midgets

JEFFERSON CITY — The first of four United States Auto Club midget car shows will be held at Capital Speedway, Thursday night.

Friday night the midgets will move on to the Springfield Speedway in Springfield, Ill. Saturday night they take to the track at Lake Hill Speedway at Valley Park, Mo., while the midgets close out the last of the four race dates at Tri-City Speedway at Granite City, Ill.

The pilots will be racing for a total purse of $9,000 during the four nights or 40 per cent of the gate receipts at the tracks.

Expected to be on hand at Thursday night's show at Capital Speedway is Jim Caruthers of Anaheim, Calif., who is the current point leader in the midget class of USAC.

Also among the 35 pre-entries is Bob Tattersall and Dave Strickland, who are running second and third behind Caruthers respectively.

Tattersall of Streator, Ill., is the defending USAC midget champion.

Other noted names include the fourth place point-holder, Merle Bettenhausen; Mel Kenyon, Gary Bettenhausen, Johnny Parsons, Jr., Arnie Knepper, Bob Wente and Chuck Weyant.

This will be the second time in as many years that the USAC midgets have been to Capital Speedway.

Last Sept. 11, Tattersall copped the 40-lap feature.

The pilots will have only two records to shoot for — those being the one-lap mark established by Tattersall at :22.12 and the six-lap record of 2:12.44, by Mel Kenyon, both set at last year's show.

The program will consist of time trials, trophy dash, four heat races, a consolation feature and a main feature.

The time qualifications will get underway at 7:30 p.m., with the first race scheduled for 8:30 p.m.

Tourney Berth Goes to Ziegler

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Larry Ziegler won a U.S. Open Golf Tournament berth Tuesday at Westwood Country Club, where he grew up, caddied and learned the game of golf.

Ziegler posted a four-under-par 68 and a par 74 to lead the five qualifiers with a 142.

Bob Payne of Mt. Vernon, Ill., and Ted Butler of Memphis, were tied for second with 146s.

No. One Wood or Driver:

You should always play the ball off your left heel. Of course if you are a lefthanded player, the ball will be played off your right heel. This will make you hit the ball on the upswing of your follow-through. If you desire more distance using these clubs, do not lift the club with your left hand, rather, bring the club back with your right hand. By employing this method, your club will stay low to the ground and will be at the right shoulder, where it should be. Also, by doing this, you will swing more upright on the ball.

I am writing in behalf of the forgotten softball player.

Why can't Housel Park be taken care of like the other parks in Sedalia?

There are 16 teams in the Harmony Baptist Softball League, as well as two other teams that use the park six nights a week.

The church league started Monday night — the outfield was not mowed and there is a hole in the back stop about two feet wide, that a ball went through and almost hit a young boy.

Also, there is far too much dirt in the infield — about two to three inches deep.

The cars that drive around the park go too fast; in addition, many young children can usually be found in the park's vicinity.

This park could be made back into one of the best softball fields in central Missouri — just like it was in the 1950's. There should be more lights on the poles, with new lights being installed in right-center and left-center fields.

If these poles were to be installed, there also should be an adequate fence built in the outfield, with the poles on the outside of the fence.

I realize that it would take a lot of money to construct a fence — maybe some donations could be made, or maybe these (old men) softball players could sell candy to raise additional funds.

Mayor Jerry Jones wants a recreation program; he has a good foundation to start with right in Housel Park by making it suitable for softball.

Maybe more money could be put into the Park Board's revenue, as is the case in Marshall and Windsor.

In these cities, players do not have to pay for lights, umpires or anything else in the recreation program.

I sincerely hope there can be some improvements in the very near future.

Bill Veeck To End Testimony in Trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Veeck, controversial former major league club owner who gave baseball the exploding scoreboard, was expected today to fire the final shots in Curt Flood's $3 million antitrust suit against the sport.

The flamboyant, unconventional Veeck, who like Ted Williams rarely wears a tie, was scheduled to be the final witness for Flood before his suit challenging baseball's reserve system goes to Judge Irving Ben Cooper for a decision.

Veeck, who owned the St. Louis Browns, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, is the only witness for the plaintiff who can bring to the court room an owner's perspective on costs and problems within the framework of the reserve system.

Miss Barnes Wins Trip To Capitol

Susan Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Barnes of 1815 East 15th Street, won the National Bowling Congress' All-American Youth Bowling Championships, in the Missouri division eliminations. The roll-off was held in Columbia, Saturday.

The competition was figured in a 50-50 manner including bowling skill and scholastic honors.

Miss Barnes was in the top seven per cent of her graduating class at Smith-Cotton, last month.

During the competition, she won over 12 other female entries from the state.

Her winning effort entitles her to a trip to Washington, D.C., to bowl in the international Championships, representing Missouri with two boys from St. Louis bowling in their division.

She also receives a blazer and has a chance to win a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice.

While on her trip to Washington, she will meet the President of the United States.

In the competition she rolled scratch games of 566 (233, 184 and 149) and 506 (175, 169 and 162). With the bonus and handicap pins, her overall totals were 629 and 619 respectively.

Local Lady Golfers Running in Second

The first of four annual inter-city ladies' golf meets was held at the Sedalia Country Club, Tuesday.

The Sedalia women ended the first round in second place, behind Columbia.

Mrs. William Brown was the day's medalist with a total of 87.

Following the first day's competition, Columbia is in first with a total of 267½; Sedalia ranks second with 261½, while Jefferson City and Fulton are in third and fourth places respectively. Jefferson City has 201, while Fulton has only 134.

The next of the four meets will be held at Fulton Friday.

Veeck's appearance is expected to draw a full courtroom crowd, and two of the main participants who have been absent for several days—Flood, and Justice Arthur Goldberg, who is representing Flood but has been campaigning for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

In testimony Tuesday that paved the way for today's wind-up session, Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, was recalled to the stand as a rebuttal witness for Flood after the defense had rested its case.

Miller contradicted testimony by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and John Gaherin, labor negotiator for the owners, that negotiations aimed at modifying the reserve system through collective bargaining had ended because Flood had instituted suit.

"There was no difference whatsoever in discussion," said Miller, "before news that Curt Flood intended to file a suit or after."

Miller also took exception to a statement by Gaherin that the players association had asked for a halt in discussions for fear that continuing them would harm Flood's court case.

"The statement was completely inaccurate—it was quite the reverse," Miller said. "We said if there were appropriate amendments, there would be no action. If we were able to agree on revisions, the plaintiff would withdraw his suit."

Jay Topkis, questioning Miller, continued to emphasize the position of the owners on bargaining to modify the reserve system—which Flood contends enables baseball to operate illegally in restraint of trade—by asking Miller if he considered the discussions that had taken place "collective bargaining."

Miller said he didn't. "Has management proposed any modification of the system?" asked Topkis.

"No," replied Miller.

Miller also disagreed with testimony by Kuhn and other defense witnesses that modifying the system would affect the level of the sport's integrity.

Miller said he did not think anything "would result in a player not doing his best for any reason" in that he didn't think the owners would become involved in tampering in "terms of attempting bribery on the basis of future employment."

He also noted that professional football had thrived without a reserve system and that pro football's integrity had not suffered in the public eye.

Blundy, Derr Have Leads In I.M.C.A.

DES MOINES — Jerry Blundy of Galesburg, Ill., still has a commanding lead in the International Motor Contest Association's sprint car standings.

Blundy has a total of 1485 points for first place, while second is currently held by Darl Harrison of Tiffin, Ohio, with a total of 865. Harrison is the defending champion in the IMCA sprint car division.

Third place is held by J. D. Leas, who has a total of 820 points thus far this season.

Bill Utz of Sedalia, with a total of 240 points, is in 18th place.

The IMCA late model division finds Ernie Derr in front with 765 points.

He leads Fred Horn, who has 480, and Irv Janey, with 460.

Finley Clouds Hockey Picture

MONTREAL (AP) — Controversial baseball owner Charles O. Finley and the troubled Oakland Seals franchise threatened to jam today's already crowded schedule at the annual National Hockey League meetings.

Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics of baseball's American League, was to make his pitch to NHL governors today to take over the Seals for an estimated $3,400,000.

Today's agenda is already crowded by the expansion draft in which two new clubs, the Vancouver Canucks and the Buffalo Sabres, will get 18 skaters and two goaltenders each for the $6,000,000 entry fee each team paid.

Each of the 12 existing clubs is allowed to protect 15 forwards or defensemen and two goalies against the intrusion by the newcomers.

Other unfinished business includes meetings between the

Pledge Tosses No-Hit Contest Against Pepsi

Bob Pledge tossed a no-hitter against Pepsi-Cola Tuesday night in leading S-M Sporting Goods Sr. Babe Ruth team to a 2-0 victory. Pledge only allowed one base runner in the contest — that on a hit batsman. S-M collected their two runs on four hits.

Steve Eck took the loss for Pepsi Cola.

In the night's opening action, Scott Purchase took the victory when VFW topped Broadway Realty, 15-2.

VFW pounded out their 15 runs on 14 hits.

The loss was handed to Greg Moyer. Purchase only allowed three hits in the contest.

For the year, S-M leads the four-team league with a mark of 2-0; Pepsi-Cola and VFW follow with marks of 1-1, while Broadway Realty is 0-2.

The teams will meet in the same pairings as Tuesday night, tonight at Liberty Park Stadium.

American Hockey League, the Western Hockey League and the NHL to declare indemnification fees to be paid to the minor leagues for their displacement at Buffalo and Vancouver.

Still to be settled is the players-owner council agreement for this year. Alan Eagleson, the Toronto lawyer who is executive director of the NHL Players' Association, said Tuesday night the two sides "have reached preliminary agreement on several topics," but further discussion is necessary. He refused to elaborate.

Finley's unheralded appearance here was prompted by a California Superior Court decision Tuesday in which Judge Robert Schnacke ruled that the Seals return to their original ownership—a group headed by Barry van Gerbig.

Van Gerbig, in turn, sought permission to regain the club from Trans-National Communications of New York in order to resell it to Finley.

The judge concurred, providing Finley could obtain permission to operate the franchise from the NHL governors.

The Providence Reds of the AHL must have confidence in Oakland's future. They renewed a one-year working agreement with the Seals Tuesday.

Tuesday also saw the first of the meetings' big draft. However, the intra-league affair between the existing 12 clubs failed to stir much action. Fewer than 20 players were shuffled, with another four being drafted by Buffalo in the inter-league draft which followed immediately.

Beyer broke a total of 24 of the 25 pigeons to pick up the first-place mark.

Don Tolliver was second, scoring on 23 of the 25 attempts, while Dick Flippin, Bill Neth, Ron Richardson and Charles Thomas all tied for third with scores of 22.

For the season, Flippin still holds the point edge.

Gen. Wheeler To Retire With Medical Disability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will be excused payment of federal income tax on $25,200 of his annual retirement pay on grounds of disability.

Formal Army orders say Wheeler has been "determined to be permanently unfit for duty by reason of physical disability of 70 per cent."

Wheeler, 62, will retire early in July after a record six years in the nation's highest military post.

Although he suffered a heart attack in September 1967, Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard Nixon each later extended him in the JCS chairmanship for an extra year.

When asked for specific information on Wheeler's disabilities, the Army replied that "information contained in medical records is privileged and therefore exempt from public release."

The Army said 70 per cent disability means that $2,100 a month of Wheeler's retirement pay will be income tax exempt. Such exemption percentages are based on active duty salary. Wheeler now draws $3,000 a month as JCS chairman.

Menninger Backs Off From Idea

TOPEKA (AP) — Dr. Walter Menninger said Tuesday he had not intended that his reference to licensing in connection with news media be taken so literally.

"I am not going to make licensing my bag," the Menninger Foundation psychiatrist said in discussing the reaction of the news media to his address to the National Press Club in Washington Feb. 14. He said at that time:

"In other professions with a public trust—medicine, law, education—laws for licensure and certification assure the public that the practitioner has fulfilled minimum standards, met certain requirements for training and demonstrated competence in the profession. The public is entitled to similar safeguards in the quality of the practitioners of this most important cornerstone of our democratic society, the news media."

Dr. Menninger said Tuesday, "To focus on licensing is to miss the point. What is terribly important is the assurance to the public by the journalistic profession that it is governed by standards. This is the challenge to the journalistic profession."

"To all practical purposes, the public counts on the journalist to maintain that public trust. The journalist has the singular responsibility to the public to guarantee that this trust will be upheld."

Dr. Menninger quoted from a speech he made to a district Rotary Club conference in Manhattan, Kan., March 14 in which he said:

"Obviously, the thought of 'licensing' springs from my medical background where this is the practice. Thus, I may have chosen the wrong word to emphasize a concern about professional standards in journalism. It is clear that certification or licensure doesn't guarantee competent performance of professionals. It does no more than assure the public that practitioners have met minimum standards."

"And, there are undoubtedly many legal, constitutional and procedural problems that would make certification or licensure of journalists by law well nigh impossible."

Teachers Ask No Cutbacks In Program

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Officers of two teachers organizations presented a 3,000-signature petition to the St. Louis Board of Education Tuesday night in support of demands that there be no reduction in the school program because of a lack of money.

The petition was signed by members of the St. Louis Teachers Union and the St. Louis Teachers Association.

The teachers want assurance school programs will be operated at present levels until funds are exhausted, then schools will be closed.

Other demands include no increase in the current pupil-teacher ratio, no involuntary transfers of teachers and no cutbacks in remedial reading programs.

More than 600 teachers marched from a rally in downtown St. Louis to the Board of Education building, where officers of both groups presented the list of demands.

The school board has been considering reductions because of a tight financial situation expected for the next school year.

The Army said the determination of disability in Wheeler's case was made by Maj. Gen. Kenneth Wickham, its adjutant general, on behalf of Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

The adjutant general acted on the recommendation of a Army medical board, a physical evaluation board and the Army Physical Review council, it said.

How, if Wheeler was so disabled, did he perform his function as JCS chairman? The Army was asked. It replied:

"Your question should be referred for answer to the secretaries of Defense who recommended him and to the presidents who appointed Gen. Wheeler to serve as chairman... and at whose pleasure he continues to serve; and to the Senate which advised and consented to the appointments."

Wild Rivers Plan Is Aim Of Senator

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. Richard Southern, D-Missouri, is hopeful a workable plan to preserve Missouri's wild scenic rivers can be developed in time for the 1971 legislation.

Southern is chairman of a special committee studying the problems involved. It has held three hearings and in July plans to hold more at places to be determined in the Ozarks.

Tuesday the committee heard canoeists and sportsmen advocate some kind of a "user fee" to finance any regulatory program. One said he thought canoeists would be willing to pay $10 a year for the right to float the fast flowing streams.

Southern and Rep. John A. Grellner, D-Richmond Heights, said the sportsmen and the landowners do not appear to be far apart in their views.

Both want to preserve the rivers, both say some kind of an easement system should be worked out to pay landowners and both advocate anti-littering and strong conservation practices.

The present effort to develop a program started after a scenic rivers bill failed in the 1969 legislature.

Later a group of canoeists and sportsmen's clubs started an initiative petition drive to put their version on the ballot but it was withdrawn after strong opposition developed from Ozark landowners.

That proposal called for preservation of the stream sides to 300 feet on either side of the rivers, or to the "line of sight" at the top of scenic bluffs. No decision has been reached on the size of a buffer zone in the proposed 1971 legislation.

Former Students Given Sentences

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Three former Lincoln University students drew one-year jail sentences Tuesday after pleading guilty to malicious property destruction in a fire at the old ROTC building at Lincoln Sept. 25, 1968.

They were Hamel Rose, Willie Horne and Robert Wilmsmeyer. They were accused of setting the fire, which did little damage.

'Trial Balloon' Gets Deflated By Authorities

ST. LOUIS (AP) — William Looney of suburban Berkeley sent up a trial balloon Tuesday to see if the law would allow his method of demonstrating that jetliners fly too low over his home. It didn't.

Looney attached three gas-filled balloons to a light fishing line and let them rise 50 feet above his house.

"If my balloons are too high, their jets are too low," Looney contended in reference to jetliners which land and take off at Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport.

He said if the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) feels balloons flying of 150 feet are a hazard to airplanes, then said the subdivision he lives in.

The FAA, apparently considering Looney's balloons a hazard, complained to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which complained to Berkeley police, who asked Looney to bring down his balloons.

Looney complied.

Law and Order Summit Meet Is Scheduled

Lexington attorney Ike Skelton, Democratic primary candidate for the State Senate from the 28th district, announced plans today for a law and order "summit meeting" in Sedalia Monday.

The conference is being organized, Skelton said, to focus public attention on the state's most urgent problems and to generate new programs to combat crime and disorder.

Skelton believes that present efforts to stem a rising crime rate seem to be losing ground in parts of Missouri.

"By getting the best minds in our communities to concentrate on this problem," he said, "we should be able to come up with workable, common-sense approaches that can turn the tide of lawlessness."

Participants at the summit meeting will include educators, jurists and law enforcement authorities, Skelton said.

Ask Nixon To Intervene In Kansas City Strike

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An unusual plea for White House intervention in a building trades strike, now in its third month, that has crippled Kansas City area construction was made by civic leaders Tuesday.

Mayor Ilius Davis of Kansas City, Mo., Mayor Joseph H. McDowell of Kansas City, Kan., and Donald Gamet, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, asked President Nixon to intervene.

Myron Calkins, Kansas City public works director, estimates more than $73 million in area construction, representing 500 projects, and 23,000 workers are affected by the strike.

Davis, McDowell and Gamet urged President Nixon to exercise executive authority and suspend the Depression-born Davis-Bacon Act during "this inflationary period."

The 1931 federal law states a builder must pay prevailing wages if the U.S. is a party to the building contract. Much of the construction shut down here is federally-financed.

Davis cited a 1934 federal attorney general's opinion that the President has the power

Says Leftists Waste Money On Campuses

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Many graduate students subsidized by taxpayers are being given passing grades by leftist professors so they can engage in leftist activities on and off college campuses, Michael W. Thompson, national vice chairman of Young Americans for Freedom, said Tuesday.

"If the taxpayers could be on the campuses of the universities and see the mockery of our once great educational system that has been going on in recent weeks, they would be appalled," Thompson told the women's auxiliary of the University Club.

"The taxpayers would see graduate students, the great majority of them subsidized to the extent of $2,000 or more per year by the taxpayers, spending their time, not in furthering their knowledge so as to eventually make this nation even greater, but rather engaging in leftist political activities."

"Perhaps the most bizarre part about all this is that many of these taxpayer - subsidized students do not even have to concern themselves with passing their courses. Many leftist professors are willing to give them passing marks so the graduate students can politic," Thompson said.

Could Face Runoff Race In S. Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Rep. John L. McMillan, seeking renomination to his 17th term, failed to win a majority in Tuesday's Democratic primary and could be forced into a runoff with a 38-year-old Negro physician.

The physician, Dr. Claud Stephens, said he would not decide whether to call for a runoff until he studied the vote.

McMillan, 72-year-old chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee, far outdistanced his three opponents Tuesday but fell 719 votes short of the majority needed to eliminate the possibility of a June 23 runoff.

A surge of late votes for Stephens from predominantly Negro areas in late vote counting took him into second place and cut McMillan's margin from a majority in the unofficial totals.

The major issue raised by McMillan's opponents was a charge that he spent more time involved in District of Columbia affairs than with his own district.

Campus Village Is Kept Quiet By Policemen

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Nightstick carrying officers kept the peace today on the streets of the guarded college community of Isla Vista while students at the adjacent University of California campus began final examinations.

Officers arrested 142 young people Tuesday night and early today for violating a 7:30 p.m.-6:30 a.m. curfew imposed by the county board of supervisors, the sheriff's office said.

It was the largest arrest total for a single day since the latest trouble broke out Thursday night. More than 150 had been arrested through Monday night.

In the six nights since officials announced last Thursday indictment of 17 young persons in the burning of a Bank of America branch during violent demonstrations last February, roving bands have smashed windows, thrown rocks at patrol cars and set scattered trash and brush fires.

Militants have said they were protesting the indictments, the Establishment, the war and a variety of other causes which are of concern to college youths.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Nightstick carrying officers kept the peace today on the streets of the guarded college community of Isla Vista while students at the adjacent University of California campus began final examinations.

Officers arrested 142 young people Tuesday night and early today for violating a 7:30 p.m.-6:30 a.m. curfew imposed by the county board of supervisors, the sheriff's office said.

It was the largest arrest total for a single day since the latest trouble broke out Thursday night. More than 150 had been arrested through Monday night.

In the six nights since officials announced last Thursday indictment of 17 young persons in the burning of a Bank of America branch during violent demonstrations last February, roving bands have smashed windows, thrown rocks at patrol cars and set scattered trash and brush fires.

Militants have said they were protesting the indictments, the Establishment, the war and a variety of other causes which are of concern to college youths.

Report Foods Found Lacking, Says Division

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The State Health Division today invited consumers to report promptly any food that is found to be mislabeled, unsanitary, contaminated or unfit for human consumption.

"In reporting a legitimate grievance, you are doing a public service," said Dr. L.M. Garner, acting director of the Health Division which operates the State Bureau of Milk, Food and Drug Control.

He said Division of Health sanitarians would investigate complaints and take appropriate action.

Destruction of Colleges Said Goal of Extremists

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard President Nathan S. Pusey says the nation's campuses are being disrupted by student and faculty extremists bent on destroying the existing higher educational system.

Addressing seniors at the university's annual baccalaureate ceremonies Tuesday, Pusey said those he cited had revived the 1950s methods of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy rousing "hate and anger" for their own purposes.

"Now, less than 20 years later, our campuses are experiencing a not dissimilar period of torment whiplashed as they are by a resurgence of his hateful technique," declared Pusey, who was himself a target of McCarthy in 1953.

He said the campus unrest was stirred by "extremist groups of the New Left made up of students and—I am sorry to acknowledge—also of some faculty who for reasons not quite clear to me would like to see our colleges and universities desecrated, maligned and even shut down."

Pusey added:

"Always they insinuate, distort, accuse, their aim being not to identify and correct real abuses but always rather by crying alarm intentionally to arouse and inflame passions in order to build support for 'non-negotiable demands' and, by this means, to enlarge their following and enhance their power."

Pusey, who is retiring next June, recalled coming to Harvard in 1953 after having served as president of Lawrence College in McCarthy's hometown of Appleton, Wis., where he had opposed the Republican senator's successful re-election bid in 1952.

Pusey concluded that some of the blame for the current state of affairs must go to those in the academic community "who, like the honest burghers of the Weimar Republic, peace-loving, tolerant, with no desire to impose their views on others, have been unwilling to pass critical judgment on any of their kind."

Governor Won't Assist In Probe of Shooting

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. John Bell Williams says Mississippi has declined to aid a Justice Department probe of the Jackson State College shootings, an investigation he regards as one-sided.

Confirming Tuesday a rift between state and federal investigators, Williams said it was caused by an FBI failure to cooperate in the state's investigation of the campus confrontation with police in which two young Negroes were shot to death.

In Washington earlier, Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard asserted Mississippi had refused to turn over weapons used in the May 15 shooting or to make officers involved available for questioning.

Williams, in a statement read to newsmen in his office, said Leonard "is absolutely correct when he says that the Mississippi Highway Patrol has not turned over its weapons to the FBI. He is correct when he says that the highway patrolmen have not been interviewed by the FBI."

The governor added:

"There is no obligation on the part of the state of Mississippi, legally, morally or otherwise, to furnish hooks, lines, poles, bait, water and fish for Mr. Leonard's fishing expeditions."

Williams summoned newsmen to his office to read the statement and refused to elaborate on it.

He said the Jackson State violence was local in nature "and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of local law enforcement officers; yet Mr. Leonard's own FBI had representatives on the Jackson State campus during those riots."

"Mr. Leonard has refused to submit any of his people to our Mississippi investigating authorities for interview. It's time he learned that cooperation is a two-way street."

The governor, in a television report last week, said highway patrolmen fired on students in self-defense following sniper fire from a girls' dormitory.

Leonard said there was "insufficient evidence to establish the presence of a sniper."

Leonard indicated a grand jury might be called to subpoena evidence.

Jackson State College resumed classes Tuesday for the first time since the violence erupted.

Rule Evidence Can Be Used In New Case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All eight judges of the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting en banc, have ruled that evidence used against an accused in one case can be used against the same person in another case.

The ruling, handed down Monday, reversed a three-judge panel of the appellate court which had overturned the convictions of three persons tried under evidence obtained for prosecution of another case.

The defendants were John L. Boveri of Defiance, Mo.; Eugene Hanlon of University City, Mo.; and Mrs. Gloria Meyer of Hazelwood, Mo.

The three were charged initially with failure to obtain a federal gambling tax stamp.

Hair Too Long

Marine Corps reservists were turned down June 9 in an effort to avoid court martial and possible active duty because they let their hair grow. The Marines, whose hair is not excessively long by current collegiate standards, face maximum sentences of two years active duty, six months at hard labor, two-thirds forfeiture of pay for six months, reduction in grade to private, and bad conduct discharges. They are charged with disobeying a director order to get a haircut. Left to right are: Pfc. James Wallace, San Diego; L. Cpl. Robert Vighiany, San Diego; Pfc. Dennis Frieden, San Diego, and Pfc. Conrad Melilli, Hollywood, Calif. (UPI)

Job Bias Against Women Is Barred By Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has issued guidelines designed to prohibit discrimination against women in jobs under federal contract, a move described by a female spokesman as "a most appropriate milestone of women's progress."

Elizabeth Duncan Koontz, director of the Labor Department's women's bureau, made the remark Tuesday while announcing the guidelines at the White House.

The rules ban sexual bias in jobs, wages, hours, seniority and retirement. They result from a presidential task force review of women's rights and responsibilities submitted to the Nixon administration six months ago.

At the same time, the American Association of University women Tuesday released a study in which 84 per cent of the women and 77 per cent of the men who responded to a questionnaire said that women were discriminated against in the business world.

The questionnaire was published in the AAUW's journal last January. Of the organization's 170,000 members, about 7,000—including nearly 3,000 men—responded to the opinionnaire.

Without specific guidelines to go by, Mrs. Koontz said, there was a gray area and confusion about sex discrimination in such jobs.

She said the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which investigates women's rights on jobs, has a backlog of some 600 complaints of sex discrimination.

A presidential directive against sex discrimination on government work contracts has been on the books since 1965. But not until now have exact guidelines been set publicly.

The guidelines prohibit advertising in newspaper columns headed male or female unless sex is a legitimate occupational qualification.

They prohibit any distinction between married or unmarried persons and the denying of employment to women with young children unless the same policy exists for men.

Pebbles on Earth May Be From Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tektites, mysterious black and green pebbles found in only four isolated areas of the earth, may be of lunar origin, a study of Apollo 12 moon rock indicates.

Dr. John A. O'Keefe of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said glass found in a lemon-size moon rock appeared to be tektite glass.

Its (the moon sample) constitution answers the arguments given by proponents of the terrestrial origin of tektites. O'Keefe said in the current issue of Science magazine.

There appears to be no sound reason not to say that tektites come from the moon. The rock in question was part of a lunar rock sample brought back in November by the Apollo 12 crew and believed to be some 4.6 billion years old. Scientists at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston have described it as "clearly the oldest rock yet found on the moon, and older than any rock found on earth."

Tektites are black or green glass pebbles found in small quantities in Bohemia and Moravia, sections of Czechoslovakia, the East Indies and Australia.

Usually the pebble's surface is pitted or sometimes grooved with winding marks. A few have ring marks like those seen on spacecraft re-entry heat shields.

O'Keefe said he compared the Apollo 12 rock with two earth tektites and some 5,000 ordinary rocks produced by fusion in heating.

The Apollo 12 rock has the distinctive chemical hallmarks of a tektite, including enrichment in potassium and a puzzling mixture of the characteristics of the basic rocks and the acidic rocks like granite," he said.

Earlier theories held tektites were sort of earth rocks, such as sandstone or shale, fashioned from hardened mud or sand, and distributed over the earth by the impact of large comets and the resultant splashing of melted sandstone.

"It is now clear that the moon can produce the same peculiarities, although it has no mud, sand or atmosphere," O'Keefe said.

He added that most moon rocks found thus far are older than 3 billion years. By contrast, the oldest tektite apparently has an age of 2 billion, and most are much younger.

This discrepancy could be explained if tektites were launched from the moon not by meteorite impact, as O'Keefe himself formerly believed, but by volcanic eruption as suggested by a Dutch engineer, D. R. D. M. Verbeek, in 1897, he said.

O'Keefe explained that older material may be torn from the sides of a volcano's vent, but even this material likely would be the result of a relatively recent previous eruption since volcanism rarely continues for a long time at the same site.

Thus, even if lunar volcanoes are rare, they would account for all the material found on the earth," he said.

Says Police Should Have Shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Louisiana congressman says most Americans share his view that police should have used their guns during two outbreaks of violence at last November's massive antiwar protest.

"I think it's popular in America," Rep. Edwin Edwards, D-La., said Tuesday of his controversial stand. "I just have to believe that Americans feel criminal acts have to be stopped."

His position was opposed by Washington Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Kennedy today said, "We must learn well the lessons of how we can allow and encourage dissent without citizen violence, and how we can maintain order and safety without official violence."

Edwards considered a political moderate in his home state, said originally during a hearing Tuesday of his House internal security subcommittee that he saw "several instances where gunfire was not only justified by required."

He later told a news conference he was not advocating the police should have fired into a crowd, but he stuck to his "not only justified, but required" stand regarding "specific, isolated individuals."

Police would have been justified in shooting in two instances during the moratorium, Edwards said.

"They stormed the Justice Department and there was a confrontation with police over the flag," and "when police and demonstrators clashed at Dupont Circle the night before the Nov. 15 rally."

Edwards, who said he is running for governor of his state, said gunfire in such situations was justified "only because they repeatedly refused to cease and desist what they were doing."

Discipline is the key to quelling such violence, he said. At the hearing Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, took issue with Edwards, saying police should not assume the role of "judge, jury and executioner" during demonstrations.

The discussion on the use of guns came after Wilson showed the subcommittee a police film of the moratorium.

Wilson, who was on hand at the two instances described by Edwards, said he knew of no instance in which police should have used their guns.

He said his force handled outbreaks with a minimum of force, and with a strategy of dispersal.

"It is not the job of a police officer to punish anyone," Wilson said.

Kennedy said violence between Americans "is unequivocally unacceptable as a mode of expression, a means of dissent, or a tool of vengeance."

In a prepared statement he said the demonstration showed it is possible to have massive dissent without a threat to security.

'Final Solution' To Lagoon Ducks

MIAMI (AP) — Homeowners near Kendall Park Pond had complained that the park's wading ducks were dirty, noisy and troublesome.

On Monday most of the ducks were dead or shuffling slowly near death along the shore.

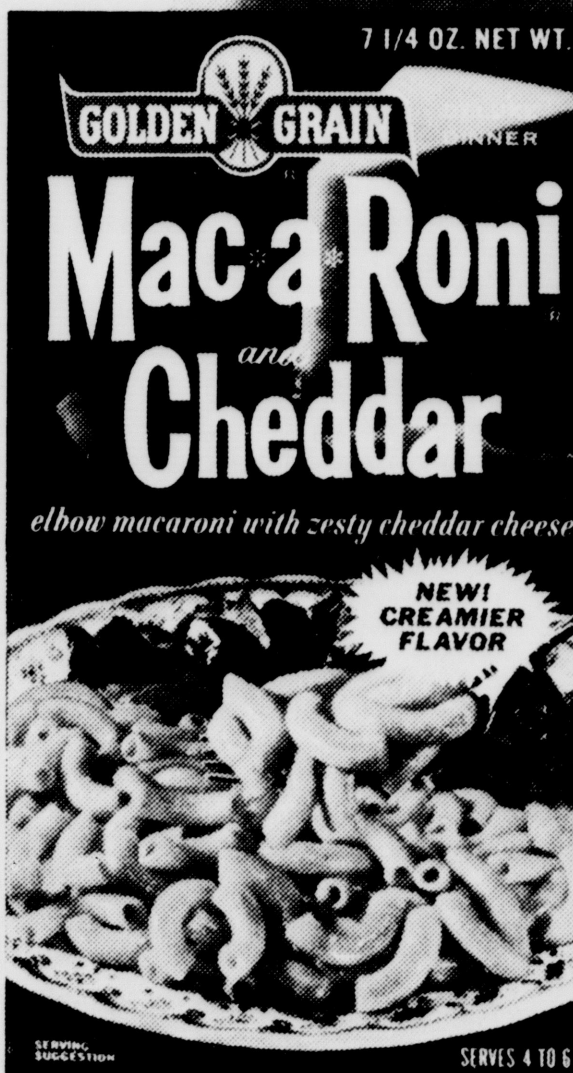

"There's a group that lives in the area that wanted to get rid of the ducks," the park supervisor said. "People would call us—they'd never give their names—and say 'We want those ducks out of there.'"

"I have a strong suspicion that the ducks were poisoned," he added.

"There's nothing we can do."

Ann Landers

Bride With Limp Should Be Admired

Dear Ann Landers: Our closest friends have a very handsome son who will be getting married in a few months. We have watched this boy grow up and he is very dear to us.

The bride had a serious bone infection when she was a child. It left her with a bad limp. Of course she is unable to dance or participate in sports such as skiing, skating, tennis, and so on. But this does not seem to bother her fiancé who is a wonderful all-around athlete. (Love must be blind as they say.)

The bride's mother is planning a lavish wedding. We were told of the arrangements last night. The bride will walk down the center aisle of the church on her father's arm in the traditional manner. Since the girl has such a noticeable limp, wouldn't it be better if she entered from the side of the pulpit and joined her father at the altar?

The girl's parents are accustomed to her limp so of course they do not see it as others do. Would a telephone call from an objective non-relative, such as myself, be in order? — Second Mother

Dear Second: The bride and her mother have the right to make this decision, and they have made it. I admire the girl for the remarkable adjustment she seems to have made to her handicap. Apparently she is virtually unaware of it. Stay out of the wedding plans and behave like a guest.

Dear Ann Landers: Once someone asked you if the teeth you display in your newspaper picture are your own. You said yes. I knew they were — without reading your answer. You wouldn't be so hardboiled in your advice to people with denture problems if you had been through some of the hell they have. It's very easy for you to sit in Chicago with all your own teeth and tell a reader in Wyoming that her husband is a stubborn mule because he won't go to the dentist and spend another $400.

I have been through plenty these past two years — lost twenty pounds and had to take nerve medicine. Two dentists made teeth for me and neither set fit worth a damn. I paid for the teeth before I knew they were no good so the dentists just kept fiddling around trying to make them fit, which they never did.

Finally I went to a third dentist and said I'd pay him only if the teeth fit. The minute he put the teeth in my mouth they felt perfect and I've never had a minute's trouble. So inform your readers that the way to buy dentures is to refuse to pay unless they are perfect from the word go. — Smiling Ed

Dear Ed: Very few dentists will guarantee a perfect fit from the word go. Most dentures need some adjustment. You were lucky — the third time was a charm. Congratulations.

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to "Worried Mom" was assinine. I would rather have my 17-year-old daughter wrestle in the back yard with 14-year-old neighbor boys than with a 19-year-old sex-maniac in the back seat of a car. Her older sister was an unwed mother at 16. One of those in a family is enough. Get with it. — Bakersfield

Dear Bake: A 17-year-old girl who is still horsing around with 14-year-old boys in the back yard is a little behind schedule. So why don't you get with it?

U.S. Factors Influenced Wilson To Call British Elections

LONDON — (NEA) — Thunderclouds on the American horizon have been partly responsible for the decision by Harold Wilson, British Labor prime minister, to hold a general election on June 18, according to those who are close to Wilson.

Under the British system, the prime minister can dissolve Parliament and call a general election at a date which suits him and his party best. This Wilson did, as public opinion polls showed the Labor party with a clear lead over its Conservative opponent (although subsequent soundings find the Tories regaining ground).

The hoary saying that when America sneezes Britain catches cold has never appeared truer than at present. The Wall Street slump caused stock market prices to fluctuate wildly here. The Cambodian action and recent student riots in America have shaken financial circles here, too. Wilson would like to get the elections out of the way before further mischief can be done, his friends say.

The Middle East and Russia's growing involvement in the Arab-Israeli war undoubtedly have entered into Wilson's calculations in calling an early summer election. The Labor prime minister has never forgotten how in 1967 the Six-Day War dealt sterling the blow that made devaluation inevitable.

The public opinion polls which showed a sudden swing to Labor a few weeks ago were influential in Wilson's decision because a year ago the Labor party trailed the Conservatives by 28 per cent.

Some Conservatives are inclined to blame their leader, Edward Heath, for failing to offer the country a convincing alternative to the Labor leadership. Significantly, only 55 per cent of Conservatives polled recently think that Heath is doing a good job, whereas 88 per cent of the Laborites backed Wilson.

"Heath constantly has to look back over his shoulder to see if he's being followed," one of his lieutenants complains.

Indeed, the contrast between Wilson and Heath is a striking one. Wilson has been called "the Stanley Baldwin of the Labor party," meaning that the image he projects is one of being safe and conservative. He is very much the pipe-smoking family man, and his wife Mary and son Giles are always in evidence.

Ted Heath, on the other hand, is a bachelor whose chief interests (aside from politics) are sailing and music. By nature, Heath is shy and holds himself aloof from all but a small circle of intimate friends. The absence of family life is emphasized by the fact that Heath is always being photographed holding other people's babies.

Undoubtedly the Labor government's success in getting Britain out of the red has had much to do with its present popularity. The government has managed to turn a balance of payments deficit into a surplus, strengthening the pound sterling.

Wage increases have sprinted ahead of prices. "Wilson may not yet be able to walk upon the waters, but he can certainly turn the tide," comments one of his enthusiastic supporters.

But Ted Heath doesn't feel that way. On the contrary, his hatred of Wilson is almost obsessive.

According to British social usage, the prime minister and the leader of the opposition are supposed to greet each other with first names when they chance to meet in the lobby at Westminster. Not so with Heath who, meeting Wilson, drills him with a cold, blue stare as he stalks past.

Stealing a leaf from President Nixon's notebook, the Conservatives hope to make law and order the central issue of the election campaign. With Catholics and Protestants bashing each other in Northern Ireland, Conservatives may get mileage from law and order.

But Britain is not America. No British students have yet set fire to campus buildings; so the law and order issue could backfire as being premature.

The British Labor party, on the other hand, will pose as the party that cares, holding out a vision of what is called "the compassionate state."

That Wilson's compassion does not extend to the Conservatives is apparent from the first Labor election posters. Under the heading "Yesterday's men — they failed before," the posters picture Ted Heath and his shadow cabinet as plastic gnomes. Ian Macleod, the Conservative shadow chancellor, has retaliated by calling the prime minister a "swine."

Whether this heralds the beginning of a mud-slinging campaign remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, as they prepare to set out for vacations in sunny Spain, Britons on June 18 will have a choice of Wilson's blandness or Heath's stern policies.

Whatever the choice, it will be made in an atmosphere of relative calm, with only the black clouds on the American horizon as a reminder that a storm may be brewing.

Balance of Trade Good For Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain registered a foreign trade surplus of $285.6 million in the first three months of 1970, the Treasury announced today in the midst of the nation's election campaign.

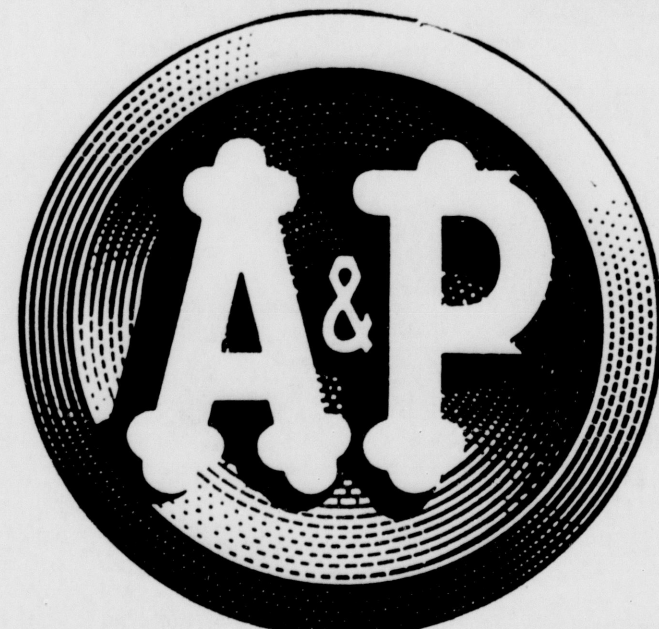

Britain's economic performance has become a major issue in the election campaign.

Saline County Fair Board Holds Beauty Contest

Miss Saline County

Miss Rosalin Steffen, Blackburn, was crowned Miss Saline County at a contest held Saturday night in Marshall. The contest sponsored by the Saline County Fair Board was held in conjunction with their annual barbecue. Shown from left to right, Miss Mary Gaddy, second runnerup, Miss Steffen, and Miss Linda Leimkuehler, first runner up.

A bright, sunny day was just what the Saline County Fair Board needed to insure the success of their annual barbecue and queen contest.

A crowd of 1400 plus, gathered to watch the lively and talented performances of county youths prior to the crowning of the 1970 junior and senior queens.

The event is used to raise money to provide premiums for the Saline County Junior Fair 4-H, FHA and FFA clubs participate in the annual show. The fair board with the assistance of youth club sponsors, prepare the barbecue meal and serve it on the courthouse lawn in Marshall.

During the afternoon the queen candidates were interviewed by judges who were basing their decision on personality, poise and beauty. Six girls were entered in the senior division and fourteen in the junior division.

Rock and roll bands, square dancers, singing groups and organists made up the program preceding the finals of the contest on the courthouse lawn.

Chamber of Commerce manager, Leo Hayob, was master of ceremonies for the evening. The girls were escorted to the stage and then did a traditional parade walk. Winner of the senior division was Miss Rosalin Steffen. Miss Steffen, a junior at Central Missouri State College from Blackburn, will represent the county at the Queen of Fairs contest to be held in Sedalia during the State Fair.

First runnerup was Miss Linda Leimkuehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Leimkuehler, Napton and second runnerup was Miss Mary Gaddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Gaddy, Marshall.

Junior division queen was Miss Jan West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl West, Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peuster, Slater, were general chairmen for the day and Mrs. Charles Wright and Mrs. Morris Strodman were chairmen for the queen contest.

Wednesday Winners

It came in the mail, a pencil scrawled letter on lined paper. "I would like to know about how to make cookies. Can you send me a recipe? My mother will show me how to make them."

Little friend, we can think of no better first try for you than the Toll House Cookie, America's favorite kind. As you'll see in the photo, you can make cookie lollipops with them, with your mother helping. We're giving you a very good Brownie Cookie recipe, too. You might also like to make animal cut-out sandwiches and give a party for your friends and for your dolls, like the one shown in the photo. We're very glad that you are planning to have Mother help you because children should never use a kitchen range or utensils without an adult in the room. Good luck with these recipes!

COOKIE LOLLIPOPS
1/2 cup butter or shortening
6 tablespoons granulated sugar
6 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon water
3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup rolled oats
1 package (1 cup) Nestle's Semi-sweet Chocolate Morsels
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Cream together butter and sugars. Beat in egg, vanilla and water. Sift in flour, baking soda and salt; mix well. Stir in rolled oats, semi-sweet chocolate morsels and nuts. Color the handles of 5-inch wooden spoons by dipping in water that has been tinted with red, yellow, green or blue food coloring. Place spoons 4 inches apart on greased cookie sheets. Drop cookie mixture by tablespoons onto bowls of spoons. Bake in 375 degrees F. oven 10 to 12 minutes. Carefully remove from cookie sheets while warm with wide spatula. Cool before serving.

YIELD: Approximately 18 lollipops.

BREAD AND BUTTER CUT-OUT SANDWICHES

Trim crusts from 6 slices white bread and 6 slices brown bread. Spread softened butter or margarine on 3 slices white and 3 slices brown bread. Cut out centers of remaining bread slices with small animal cookie cutters; reserve. Place slice of cutout white bread on top of slice of buttered brown bread. Insert brown animal cut-out in center of white bread slice. Repeat, alternating brown and white bread, until sandwiches are completed. Serve immediately or wrap in foil and place in refrigerator until ready to use.
YIELD: 6 sandwiches.

Ginger Snaps

By Ginger Moore

When a city gal like myself goes to help judge a beauty contest in a rural farm community, it's bound to create some rather funny situations. And it did!

I have only been to a farm or small town once in my life and then not until I was 18. This was a trip to my college roommate's home and although it was a small town, her father's large ranching operation is hardly a "farm," at least in our city folks minds.

In interviewing the girls from 14 to 21, I discovered that there are many similarities between "country-livin'" and city dwelling.

Girls still cite boys as their main interest and they all enjoy swimming, tennis and other outdoor sports. There the similarity ends however.

When asked about summer jobs the girls answered with jobs ranging from working in the corn fields to helping decorate wedding cakes.

I was fascinated to learn that in the corn fields the girls picked "volunteer" corn and tasseled. Rather than being corn which said, "Hey, pick me!" and shaking cheerleader's pompons, I found out that volunteer corn is corn which has grown on its own as a result of last year's crop and that tasseled is a means of preserving hybrid corn.

And did you know that when decorating wedding cakes it is necessary to use two types of icing and that decorations must be dried in a warm place, such as the bathroom? Naturally when I heard this I envisioned these girls decorating the cake in the bathtub, but I found out that only the letters and floral decorations are dried in this "warm place."

Unfortunately, I heard some rather shocking things from these girls. I found that, without exception, all the girls knew some students in their schools who were using drugs and none of the girls felt the school administration was aware of the situation.

Stories about drugs in the schools of Los Angeles and New York, while depressing are not surprising, but small schools of two or three hundred in rural Central Missouri is shocking.

It was encouraging to hear the girls say that if the person taking drugs was a friend of theirs they would try to talk them out of using drugs, as one of the girl's said, "Drugs are not my bag."

Another encouraging note was the number of girls who said they could talk to their parents about the problem. Nearly all of the girls indicated that they could talk with their parents about anything. Obviously, these parents are doing a good job of "communicating" with their children.

The entire day was one well spent and with my fellow judges, Mrs. Roy Face, a teacher from Brunswick and Jess Walters, superintendent of schools from Glasgow, I had a very enjoyable and enlightening experience.

Beautiful Bares

One of the prettiest evening looks of this or any summer is the halter-necked fashion, left, in a soft, floating fabric like this one. Pale green, almost sheer polyester crepe is softly gathered under a "jeweled" banding at both the neckline and the small waist. Right, new again, the halter neckline makes the most of a beautiful back. Here it's shown in a textured, deeply waffled pique that shapes a small waistline and poses a bow smack at the middle of the deep-cut back. Surprisingly, for all its expensive boutique look, this great look can be made by the girl who sews for about $9.00.

Necklines Provide Mini Coverage

Lots of skin out-in-the-open. That's the new cool way to dress for non-urban fashion occasions. For example, this summer many of the newest-looking pants fashions bare the midriff and cover the arms.

Back again, too, after seasons of shifty casuals are those marvelous halter necklines that make the most of beautiful backs. Halter necklines, shaping up both late-day and sportive looks are usually set off by a small, emphasized waistline, so very new and refreshingly feminine.

For a well-fitting halter, the top of the garment must be exactly right in the length from waist to neckline. To accomplish this, measure from the natural waistline to the shoulder over the fullest part of the bust, and across the front from seam to seam. Then measure the pattern front piece and adjust differences on the pattern piece itself.

To shorten, fold the pattern piece on the printed shortening line and pin in a tuck to make the necessary adjustment. To lengthen, slash across the pattern piece on the printed lengthening line. Place a piece of tissue underneath and spread the slashed pattern the necessary amount. Then pin the two pattern parts to the tissue.

The gals who sew their own beautiful bares will not only be dollars ahead, but will achieve the perfect fit so hard to find in ready-to-wear.

Church Notes

The W.M.S. of the Bunceton Baptist Church met Wednesday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Clifford Fry gave the devotion and the lesson was presented by the entire group. Mrs. John Fairchilds gave the closing prayer.

Serving as hostesses for the day were Mrs. Cloydon Hudson, Mrs. Alma Baughman and Mrs. Hubert Arnold.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Bunceton Federated Church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Porter Harned for their regular meeting.

Mrs. Betty Harriman gave the devotion and Mrs. C. T. Nelson led the group in prayer. Mrs. Farris Floyd presided during the business session. Plans were made for a float for Flag Day and the group worked on rugs during the afternoon.

About Town

Mrs. Wanda Potter and children from Tampa, Fla., are visiting her sister, Mrs. Gordon Harbit, 1410 East Third and the late Mr. Potter's father Louis Potter, Clifton City.

Mrs. Potter and her late husband, Kenneth, were former residents of Smithton and Otterville.

Social Calendar

Information to be used in the social calendar must be turned in to the women's editor at least four days in advance of the event. Only the organization's name, time and meeting place will be used.

THURSDAY

Ladies Auxiliary, Old Covered Bridge Barracks No. 820 will meet for dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Labor Hall, 1102 East Third.

First Christian Church Group 2, will meet at 6:30 p.m. at Liberty Park.

FRIDAY

Sedalia Garden Clubs will meet at 1 p.m. as follows: No. 1 with Miss Mary Smasal, 1111 West Second; No. 2 with Mrs. H. A. Hite, 1416 South Grand; No. 3 with Mrs. David Curry, 2608 Plaza; No. 4 will meet at 9 a.m. at the Pacific Cafe; No. 5 with Mrs. Wiley Booth, Route 3; No. 6 with Mrs. William Schwermer, 301 South Ohio; No. 7 with Mrs. Roy Petty, Route 3; and No. 8 with Mrs. Terry Pile, 211 South Stewart.

For an appetizer serve avocado mashed with salt, pepper, minced onion and a little lemon juice. Use corn chips to scoop up the avocado mixture.

Capt. and Mrs. Thomas Willingham of Allenhurst, N. J., are shown at Ft. Meade, Md., Tuesday after the Army dismissed for lack of evidence charges against Willingham of murder in an alleged massacre near My Lai in South Vietnam. Captain Willingham's tour of active duty expired Feb. 10, but he was held involuntarily pending investigation of the murder charges.

Nixon Counters Mideast Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is putting together a program combining military supplies and political action to meet what it considers the growing danger of Soviet armed intervention on behalf of Egypt in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The program—still to be decided on finally—is expected to include the sale of warplanes to Israel, but also intensified efforts to work out a formula with the Soviet Union for peace talks between Israel and the Arabs.

Consideration has been given to a new cease-fire call, limiting arms sales in the Mideast—and perhaps some forceful gesture of U.S. support for Israel.

One possibility would be a publicized visit to an Israeli airfield by U.S. jets.

Officials concede virtually all ideas for an American initiative have been turned down by Moscow or failed in some other way in the past. Nevertheless, they said if the crisis is to be controlled familiar devices will have to be tried again and again.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday of one of the latest failures of U.S. policy.

He said it was decided in March to hold off on the Israeli request for planes "in the hope that it would set a pattern of restraint in the Middle East."

Yet, about a month after the decision was made, Soviet pilots began flying missions in Egypt's interior, covering such strategic points as Alexandria, Cairo and the Aswan Dam. In addition, increasing numbers of Soviet soldiers began manning antiaircraft missile bases.

In the face of this, Rogers said, the delay on the Israeli request is being reconsidered. "There will be a decision on this matter before long," he told the House committee, although he later ruled out any change before the weekend.

Another failure Rogers did not mention, since it involved private diplomatic exchanges, is the failure to get any assurances from Moscow that its pilots in Egypt are limited to interior defense missions.

U.S. and Soviet officials are scheduled to meet again Friday but the future range of Soviet military activity in Egypt's defense is not expected to be clarified.

The Nixon administration fears that at some point Russian pilots will extend their operations into the combat zone covering the Suez Canal.

This would either mean Soviet-Israeli clashes and casualties or an Israeli backdown. Israeli leaders have said, however, they intend to defend the Suez front regardless of who fights on the other side.

U.S. officials believe the danger of Soviet involvement on the Suez front will grow considerably if the conflict drags on.

Thus, in spite of past setbacks, there appears to be a new determination on the part of officials here to press for peace negotiations.

Rogers touched on this administration policy theme in his talk with the House Committee, calling for compromises by both sides.

"The only hope for progress," he said, "is to convince both the Arabs and the Israelis that compromises are necessary."

"The UAR (Egypt) should abandon its refusal to enter any kind of negotiations and its insistence on prior Israeli withdrawal to the pre-June 1967 lines (which were set by Israeli conquest of Arab territory)."

"Israel should make clear that it accepts the principle of withdrawal (from the conquered territory) as laid down in the November 1967 Security Council resolution, and that it will no longer insist on the formula of 'direct negotiations without preconditions'."

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin reportedly told Rogers and Asst. Secretary of State Joseph Sisco last week the Soviet government was seriously interested in resuming talks, broken off last fall.

The Friday meeting is expected to be dedicated by both sides to an exploration of the possibility of getting somewhere in the search for peace.

Revamped Welfare Plan Goes Back to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's retooled welfare reform proposal links food stamps more closely to family assistance administration and outlines changes for public housing and Medicaid benefits, administration sources indicate.

This new version of the White House's welfare package was prepared for the Senate Finance Committee, which sent back an earlier proposal more than a month ago, demanding major alterations.

The core of the original reform is intact, the sources said: A family assistance providing a family of four $1,600 a year in basic, federal cash benefits continuing on a sliding scale until the household's earnings pass $3,920.

The President reportedly rejected one proposal to junk the food stamp program and raise the basic yearly benefits to about $2,200.

Food stamps, however, almost certainly will give way in the future to higher cash benefits—the administration's so-called cash strategy, sources said.

The President for the moment has adopted a mixed bag of cautious short-term and potentially sweeping long-range alterations, officials said.

The key change would switch administration of food stamps from various state and local agencies to the family assistance network. Family assistance is designed to replace the federal-state aid to dependent children program.

In this way, the administration believes, food stamp eligibility requirements and benefit level can be meshed with family assistance.

Some senators contended benefits from welfare-related programs such as food stamps, public housing and Medicaid would tend to destroy the work incentive and become, in fact, a "work disincentive."

They cited a Chicago family of a mother and her three children.

If the mother earned $5,000 a year, they said, the various government benefits would bring the total to $7,123. If her earnings rose to $5,560, the total would drop to $6,109, they added.

This paradoxical decline was attributed to the discontinuance of all food and medical benefits after income passed a certain level.

The new proposal is designed to avoid such precipitous cut-offs, at least for food stamps. The stamps are purchased for less than face value and re-deemed at stores for food.

The President will recommend separate legislation embodying similar principles for government subsidies involved in low rent public housing, the sources said.

The reforms for Medicaid—the federal-state health assistance program for the needy—are reportedly more long range.

The President will also call for changes in existing welfare programs benefiting unemployed fathers, the sources said. State and local governments will receive new assurances their welfare outlays will not rise under family assistance.

Additional federal costs for family assistance are reportedly about the same under the revised plan as under the original—an estimated $4.4 billion a year.

Voters Will Tire Of School Ballot

WNETZVILLE, Mo. (AP)—A proposed $1.56 increase in the school levy that has been rejected four times will be submitted to voters at 21-day intervals until it is approved, a Wentzville School District official said Tuesday.

Supt. Harold F. Kiehne said the proposal will be submitted again June 29.

The proposal to raise the district levy to $5.96 per $100 assessed valuation was rejected by a vote of about two to one Monday.

People In The News

OLD LYME, Conn. (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., who recovered recently from a heart attack, says he still intends to seek his party's nomination for a third term.

Denying reports that he might withdraw from the Democratic race, Dodd, 63, said Tuesday he was confident of winning nomination at the state party convention June 26-27.

The senator confirmed that he had been considering suggestions by "many people" that he run as an independent. He could still do so if turned down by the convention.

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — An official source says Alexander Dubcek, liberal Communist party chief deposed after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968, will return soon to his ambassadorial post here.

Dubcek left Turkey abruptly nine days ago during a purge in Prague of liberal Communist party figures. He flew to Budapest and was supposed to have gone from there to Czechoslovakia by car, but Prague did not reveal his exact whereabouts.

There had been speculation that he might have been recalled to face charges in connection with his liberalization programs that prompted the Soviet invasion in August 1968.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Police clashed with Maoist demonstrators screaming, "Down with Fascist Spock," during a speech by Dr. Benjamin Spock in Dublin's Mansion House Tuesday night.

Police ejected two girls from the hall and clashed with other demonstrators outside the building who tried to crash the meeting.

Spock, a baby doctor active in antiwar demonstrations in the United States, was speaking on "Democracy and the Right of Dissent" at a meeting organized by the Citizens for Civil Liberties.

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Barbra Streisand held an open house Tuesday. Asked by a newsman whether she thought Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau, a frequent companion on dates, "is doing a good job of running Canada" the star replied:

"We don't really talk about politics."

New president of the Christian Science church for 1970-71 is Clem W. Collins, of Boston. He was elected at the denomination's convention held this week in Boston.

Four Killed In Missouri Road Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri counted four traffic deaths Tuesday.

The dead:

Connie Sue Crippen, 20, Kansas City.

John Mason Darrow, 47, Ava, Mo.

Eugene Max Dunagan, 35, England AFB, La.

William J. Kalliel, 20, Escanaba, Mich.

Miss Crippen died when the car in which she was riding flipped over a guard rail into Douglas Branch Creek on U.S. 71 about four miles north of Nevada, Mo. She was found dead under the car in five feet of water.

Darrow was killed when his gasoline transport truck ran off U.S. 60 five miles east of Springfield, Mo., and overturned, pinning him.

Dunagan, an Air Force sergeant, was found dead in the wreckage of his car off U.S. 63 bypass west of West Plains, Mo.

Kalliel died in a collision of his car and a pickup truck near Lebanon.

Towns Represented

Michael Curtis, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Curtis, LaMonte, and Joe Close, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Close, Green Ridge, have been selected to represent their respective communities at Boys State in Warrensburg next week.

Close and Curtis are sponsored by the George T. Murphy Post, No. 491.

Suggests Extending Program

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A farm expert said Tuesday that Congress has delayed so long on a new farm program that it would be better now just to extend the present program for another year or two.

John A. Schmittker, professor of economics at Kansas State University, said "there has been nearly a year of debate over amendments in the price support program and it is getting late. Wheat farmers already are plowing for next year's crop and Congress is not even close to approving the program."

Schmittker, who was undersecretary of agriculture from 1965 to 1969, spoke to a management training conference of the Bank for Cooperatives at Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville.

He said the best approach now would be to have an independent body, like the joint economic committee, make a thorough study of the program and decide on action for next year.

Major changes that are needed, Schmittker said, are in distribution of benefits. "The really big farmers get most of the benefits." He said huge benefits to giant farmers "ought to be limited."

Schmittker said there are inadequacies among major programs for cotton, wheat and corn. He called the federal cotton subsidies "huge" and those for feed grains "very small."

Will Ask Court To Consider Case

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Civil rights attorneys say they will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to hear their appeal of the Charlotte - Mecklenburg County school desegregation case before the court adjourns for the summer.

The lawyers will ask the Supreme Court to reinstate an elementary school desegregation order overturned recently by the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The order by U.S. Dist. Court Judge James B. McMillan of Charlotte, would require busing 13,000 children between black and white schools to promote integration.

The appeals court, while upholding the plan as it applied to secondary schools, set aside the elementary school provisions and ordered a new plan drawn by June 30.

Privileged Canine

A dog was allowed in the Supreme Court Monday for only the second time in memory. Shane, a black and tan seeing-eye German Shepherd, accompanied his master, Jeff Davis Duty, Jr., of Rogers, Ark., for his formal admission to the bar. Shane lay at his master's feet for 30 minutes as Chief Justice Burger read through a long list of lawyers before coming to Duty's name. The dog then led him to the lectern. Duty and Shane are shown outside of the court. (UPI)

Questions, Some Answers About the U.S. Economy

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Observations on the economic slow-down:

WHEN IS IT A RECESSION? A lot of economists think we already are in one. They point to the sharp rise in unemployment to 5 per cent of the labor force and the sluggishness in industrial output.

No completely satisfactory set of requirements has been devised to indicate the onset of recession, but the most widely followed indicator is the Federal Reserve's index of industrial production.

That index has now fallen in eight of the past nine months, or for two straight quarters, which suggests that the nation is indeed in a recession.

Curiously, however, a good many professional economists, fully capable of making up their own minds, refrain from using the word until they get the cue from the prestigious, nongovernmental National Bureau of Economic Research.

DO CURRENT STOCK MARKET PRICES INDICATE A RECESSION? It would seem so. Certainly they reflect a great loss of investor confidence in the immediate future of business.

One way of measuring the decline in confidence is with price-earnings ratios, or the number of times earnings that an investor is willing to pay for a stock. A $60 stock with per share earnings of $3 would have a P-E of 20.

Back in 1961, when the boom was building up, the P-E ratio for the 30 stocks in the Dow Jones Industrial Average came to 22.9. By the end of 1967 it was down to 16.8, to 16.5 by the end of 1968 and 13.4 as 1969 closed.

Last Friday it had fallen to 12.8 times earnings. During the great rise in stock prices it wasn't at all unusual to see some stocks with P-E ratios of 50 or 60 or even 100. It's difficult to find them now.

ARE VOLUNTARY RESTRAINTS ON WAGE-PRICE INCREASES LIKELY TO BE SOUGHT? The chances appear to be rising. The Nixon administration has left no doubt that it opposes rigid wage-price-credit controls.

However, as the economy retrenches—and wages and prices keep rising—the pressure grows for more direct involvement of the administration in the marketplace. Indications grow that some type of voluntary plan may be formulated.

The pressure is coming not just from the housewife who sees her budget money disappearing. Inflation is exportable, to a certain extent, so several international agencies are advocating a stronger attack by Washington.

IS THE OUTLOOK BLEAK? It may depend upon how you assess it. Many respected economists foresee the economy expanding again before the end of the year. But that could mean just another round of inflation before the present one is brought under control.

The question to which there appears to be no answer is this: How do you speed up the motor without wasting the gasoline? How do you push the economy into a vigorous expansion without inflation?

Says Generations Must Work as One

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Earl Warren, former U.S. chief justice, says the older generation and the youth of America must join together in a crusade to solve the nation's problems.

Warren told commencement exercises at Boston College Monday. "The world is out of joint in more respects perhaps than at any time within the memory of living persons."

"They are not new problems or entirely the responsibility of the present generation, but rather an accumulation of all the things left undone by all the preceding generations of history."

Warren listed an agenda of problems requiring solution: "We must end war and speedily. We must overcome inflation and poverty. We must stop the deterioration of our water, land and air resources and restore them to a wholesome condition."

Rules Private Use Of Material O.K.

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal court has ruled that obscene material may be imported for private use.

The court held Monday that while "legitimate public interests" might outweigh the seller's rights of free speech and freedom of the press, "they do not outweigh the individual's right to personal freedom."

The ruling came in the case of Fred Cherry, formerly of Brooklyn, who now lives in Puerto Rico.

Roars Protest

Michael Jurich is offering his pet African lion, named "Lady," for sale in Castle Rock, Colo. Jurich is asking $300 for the lioness, or might trade for livestock or a second automobile as advertised in the Denver newspapers. (UPI)

Garland's Daughter Calm

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The late Judy Garland knew emotional torment, but her daughter Liza Minnelli remains calm amid show business pressure.

There was last week in a recording studio, for example. Thirty musicians rehearsed for Liza's first television special while she listened from the podium to learn the arrangements.

The orchestra couldn't get quite the slurred, comic effect the conductor wanted. The director called suggestions over the intercom. Tension was building.

In tight blue jeans and pullover black sweater, Liza perched on a high stool, chomping gum. She jumped down, leaned her elbows on the conductor's music stand, then embraced him and kissed his cheek in midpassage.

"Take five," Dick DeBenedictis told his players, and during the break he explained Liza's clowning: "I think she realizes there's so much pressure for everybody she tries to release it."

But Liza herself calls her have-fun quality "wafting."

"Wafting is such a hard thing to describe. It means goin' along and havin' a good time and not really getting uptight about anything.

"Because it's not worth it. You really don't have time. I try to observe enough so that I realize this too will pass if I'm going through a bad situation."

The all-musical special, "Liza," airing June 29 on NBC, will recall a half-century of show business.

Liza's producer-director, Steve Binder, agreed that she takes things calmly "but that's part of being professional. Panic I find in people of insecurity and unpreparedness."

"When she gives in a rehearsal it all comes out. A lot of performers say, 'If I save it till the performance I'll have more left.' That isn't true. The more you give, the better it gets."

Nominated for an Oscar for "The Sterile Cuckoo," she said it wasn't a big blow when she didn't win. "I was just pleased I was nominated."

What would she like to accomplish in, say, the next 10 years? "Oh, good God, I can't think that far ahead. I'd like to always be good at whatever I try."
